CROUSE GIVEN PRISON TERM IN COURT HERE

One countian was sent to the Eastern penitentiary, four others were sent to the county jail and fined while suspended jail sentences were handed down in several other cases at the November session of sentence court this morning with Judge W. C. Sheely presiding.

Vernon C. Crouse, Littlestown, convicted in court this week on a serious count involving an eight-year-old girl, was ordered to the pen for a term of not less than a year and a half nor more than three years. He also must pay the costs of the case and a $5 fine.

Jail terms were given four men who had pleaded guilty to charges of drunken driving.

30 Days in Jail

Robert Crum, Biglerville, drew a 30-day term in the county jail and was ordered to pay a $100 fine and the costs for driving a car while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. The court ruled that if the fine and costs are paid by the date of his release $50 will be remitted. Crum already has served 26 days of the sentence.

Percy L. Laughman, Hanover R. D., who pleaded guilty to a drunken driving charge after his trial started in court on Monday, was sentenced to 30 days in jail and must pay a $100 fine and the costs. He has a previous court record for larceny.

John Jacob Herr, Fairfield R. D., was sent to jail for 30 days for drunken driving and must pay a $100 fine and the costs. If the fine and costs are paid by the time of his release $75 will be remitted.

Edgar C. Little, Gettysburg R. 2, also charged with drunken driving, drew a 30-day jail sentence, $100 fine and the costs with provision for remitting $50 if the fine and costs are paid by the end of the jail term.

Suspended Sentence

Harold Patterson, Gettysburg, charged with driving a car without the owner's consent after an accident on York street several months ago, drew a suspended jail sentence. He must pay a $25 fine and the costs. The court extended for one year from today an old parole order under which Patterson was released from jail earlier this year.

Howard Leatherman, Gettysburg, was fined $100 and ordered to pay the costs on a charge of operating a car after his license had been suspended. He will be on probation for three months.

Alton Hoffman, Azron, Ohio, who pleaded guilty a week ago to burglary and larceny charges in connection with a case in Adams county, was ordered to pay $25 and the costs.

RATION BOARDS CALL FOR HELP

Adams county's two ration boards are badly in need of volunteer help for next Monday and Tuesday.

Receiving orders Friday evening that all of the 2,000 fuel oil ration applications that have been received by each local board must be "cleared" and the stamps be placed in the mail to the consumers by Tuesday evening, the board staff faces an impossible task.

Swamped with coffee, truck, tire and gasoline work, the office personnel cannot do the fuel oil processing and ration issuing. Donald P. McPherson, Jr., county rationing board chairman, said today as he appealed for volunteers.

With some local teachers helping, volunteers will assemble at the Gettysburg high school building Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock to begin work on the applications. Anyone who can help with the work Monday or Tuesday should report to the high school building, he said. Similar arrangements for enlisting volunteer help are being made at the New Oxford office of Board No. 1.

First Aid Class To Open For Women

A first aid class for Gettysburg women—those who are connected with the civilian defense corps and others—will open at the "Y" building on Monday evening at 8 o'clock. It was announced today by Robert D. Fidler, assistant first aid chairman for the Red Cross.

Miss Miriam Waltemyer and Mrs. Elizabeth Pennington will be the teachers.

Yank Reserves Apartment For "After The War"

Pittsburgh, Nov. 21 (AP)—Two American soldiers—one fighting in the far Pacific—have written the Allegheny County Housing authority requesting reservation of apartments for after the war, M. A. Sanders, management superintendent reports.

A Braddock soldier stationed in New Caledonia predicted a quick finish for the Japs and asked for an apartment in the North Braddock Heights housing project.

"I'm not married now but I am going to bring home a beautiful Australian girl and want to start housekeeping in your wonderful project," he wrote.

LOCAL COMPANY WILL SOON USE 3 NEW PLANTS

Forty-two years of experience in the feed business are being put to good use by the Central Chemical corporation (Oyler and Spangler) as the firm does its share to help the farmers in five counties produce their quota of food for wartime needs.

Overcoming its greatest obstacle since the formation of the concern on January 3, 1900—a $125,000 fire in March of this year—the corporation recently finished construction of its new feed building.

To celebrate the completion of the structure and the installation of equipment representing a cost of $25,000, the corporation will greet its customers and friends at an open house affair all day next Tuesday. Refreshments will be served to visitors who inspect the new building at that time.

The firm, at its beginning in 1900, was in the form of a partnership between J. Price Oyler and Samuel G. Spangler. The first plant was located just west of the present location along Lincolnway east. Ten men were employed by the company, which was known as the Oyler and Spangler fertilizer works.

Build New Plant

In 1912 the partnership built a plant to manufacture and sell commercial fertilizer. Oyler and Spangler were the pioneer manufacturers of commercial fertilizer in the county and today retain the distinction of being the only firm to perform this operation in the county. In the same year—1912—the partnership was incorporated.

Five years later, the Oyler and Spangler fertilizer works was consolidated with the Central Chemical corporation of Hagerstown, Maryland. At that time the corporation's plant here was enlarged.

Since then the firm has continued to expand by entering the insecticide business in 1920 and by starting the manufacture of feeds in 1927. To carry out these operations—the manufacturing of feeds, fertilizers and insecticides—the corporation requires a staff of 50 employees in its rush seasons.

Two-Story Building

Under a new plan put into operation by the corporation, each branch of manufacturing will be housed in a separate building when the present building is replaced.

NOVEMBER BOND QUOTA $143,535

Adams county's November quota for the sale of war bonds and stamps is $143,535, almost six thousand dollars more than the quota for October. Edmund W. Thomas, chairman of the county's bond and stamp committee, announced today.

"The splendid accomplishment of committee members in selling $160,217.50 worth of war bonds and stamps in October, exceeding the quota by more than $23,000 drew high praise from the Treasury department," said Mr. Thomas. "It is only natural to assume that the same cooperative efforts, coupled with the generous patriotic spirit of Adams countians will be reflected in the November sales which I feel confident will at least total the quota set by the treasury department. I want to express my thanks again to all those who helped to achieve and exceed our October quota," Mr. Thomas added.

Two Couples, Wed At Same Time In 1892, To Mark Anniversaries

MR. AND MRS. LEWIS STORM

MR. AND MRS. JOHN SANDERS

On the morning of November 22, 1892, two young couples, their attendants and friends gathered for two wedding ceremonies scheduled by chance for about the same hour in St. Francis Xavier Catholic church here with the late Rev. Fr. Joseph Boll, then near the end of his term as rector of the local church, officiating.

On Sunday those same couples and a part of the same company of attendants, friends and relatives will gather at Mrs. Smith's restaurant for a golden anniversary turkey dinner.

25 to Attend Celebration

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis A. Storm, 30 North Franklin street, will have their six children and other members of their respective families with them for the dinner and will entertain Mr. and Mrs. John Sanders, Gettysburg R. 3, the other couple at the church on that November morning 50 years ago, as their guests. Twenty-five or more are expected to be present for the anniversary celebration.

A large gathering of friends and relatives of the two young couples was on hand for the two ceremonies with one following immediately after the other. Those weddings were among the last—or possibly the last—performed by Father Boll as rector of St. Francis Xavier church.

Enjoy Good Health

Mrs. Mollie Hemler Selack, York, sister of Mrs. Storm, was her maid of honor in 1892 and she will be here for the dinner. The best man was the late Lawrence Mayers, of York, but formerly of Gettysburg. Brothers and sisters of Mr. and Mrs. Storm also will be at the dinner as will all six of their children with their husbands and wives.

Engaged in Farming

Both Mr. and Mrs. Storm are in good health. Mr. Storm is 72 but works daily in the employ of the Gettysburg Water company, a position he has held for the last 19 years. Mrs. Storm is 70 and is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hemler who resided along the Fairfield road. Mr. Storm's parents were Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Storm. He was reared in McSherrystown.

Countian Heads Scout Committee

Lloyd W. Kuhn, Bendersville banker, was elected chairman of the Boy Scout Black Walnut district committee at a meeting of district Scout leaders Friday evening at the Hotel Gettysburg. He succeeds Dr. Ralph D. Heim of the Seminary.

Plans were made for a supper meeting of district and troop committees, commissioners and Scout masters of the district in Gettysburg on Friday evening, December 18. Details of arrangements will be announced later.

Dwight D. Crisp, York-Adams area Scout field man and district secretary, and Jack Cessna, district commissioner, attended the session.

Sunday Last Day To Turn In Tires

The Express office in the Western Maryland railroad station, Carlisle street, will be open Sunday from nine o'clock in the morning until three o'clock in the afternoon to receive "extra" tires ordered by the government from motorists who have more than five tires per car.

H. R. Whip, local agent, said that the office would be open on Sunday as a convenience to those motorists who have neglected to turn in their extra tires.

The deadline for turning in extra tires is Sunday, November 22nd.

SPECIAL MART SESSION HERE ON WEDNESDAY

With a special Thanksgiving session of Farmers' Market announced for next Wednesday morning, farmers were taking orders this morning for chickens, ducks and turkeys for delivery next week.

Advance orders indicated that ducks will be more in demand this Thanksgiving than turkeys chiefly because the price of the traditional Thanksgiving bird has reached its highest level in the last 10 years.

The general price for turkeys at the Farmers' Market is 35 cents for gobblers and 40 cents for hens, live-weight, with a 50-cent charge per bird for dressing. Fewer orders were being taken on the dressed weight basis of 60 and 65 cents per pound.

Duck prices have gone up in the last two weeks but remain lower than turkeys. Muscovy ducks are selling at 25 cents a pound live-weight and 40 cents dressed. Dressed chickens brought 45 cents a pound at most stands. There was no price available on geese but some of the farmers said they have been told the live-weight price is 20 cents a pound.

Prices Are Higher

Not only is the price of meat for the Thanksgiving dinner above last year's level but other standard holiday meal dishes too will be more costly. Sauerkraut sold for 40 cents a quart and potatoes ranged from $1.85 to $2 a bushel. Sweet potatoes were $2 a bushel or 15 cents for a quart box. Choice apples sold at about $1.75 a bushel. Egg prices showed no change but ranged from 45 to 53 cents with most stands asking 50 cents for standard whites. Turnips were 15 cents a half peck.

Pork and its products continued in good demand today. At most butcher stands these prices were quoted: Sausage, 38 cents a pound; scrapple, 15 cents; back bone and ribs, 28 cents; sirloin, 55 cents; lamb, 18 cents; pudding, 30 cents; pigs' feet, 30 cents; shoulder steak, 35 cents; roasts, 35 cents; pigs' stomachs, 30 cents, and pork liver, 30 cents.

Marines Fighting For Souvenirs While Japs Fight For Their Lives

Pearl Harbor, T. H., Nov. 21 (AP)—The United States Marines on Guadalcanal, cheered by the Navy's great triumph over the Japanese fleet last week-end, are looking for more islands to conquer.

Lieut. DeWitt Peterkin, first American Naval officer to arrive here from the Solomons since the Navy's victory Nov. 14-15, said he believed some 10,000 Japanese have been killed on Guadalcanal.

"The Marines and other forces felt better after last week-end's big Naval battle than anytime since I was here," said Peterkin of New York, an assistant to the J. P. Morgan partners before he entered the service.

Want More Action

"They feel that they have been through everything, and have taken everything the Japs could give. They're optimistic and already are talking about the next move westward."

Peterkin, attached to an air squadron, arrived on Guadalcanal late in August and left there Nov. 16. His squadron sank 13 Jap ships and probably sank a fourth. Earlier in the war, he was ground officer for the famous carrier torpedo Squadron Eight, which lost all but one flier, Ensign George Gay, in the Midway battle last June.

He praised the spirit of comradeship among the Army, Navy and Marine Corps fighters on Guadalcanal, saying that "the Army Air Force is doing a marvelous job in ground strafing, dive bombing and pounding hell out of the Japs on Guadalcanal."

Most of the action against Japanese land forces on the island has been in the deep vales and on the ridges of the west front.

"The Marines would catch bunches of Japs, 300 at a time, in the vales and wipe them out. Killing a thousand in one night in one sector is not unusual. We killed a hell of a lot. I don't know how many died in the brush," Peterkin said.

Here And There News Collected At Random

"In honor of Mrs. Annie Tate for faithful service to this church."

This is the inscription on the base of a large brass cross on the altar in the Gettysburg Methodist church, a tribute to more than half a century of service as a Sunday School teacher . . . perhaps the longest period of such service in this community.

On Sunday, November 22nd, Mrs. Annie Tate will observe the seventy-ninth anniversary of her birth . . . in a modest little home on the Battlefield, three days after Abraham Lincoln delivered his immortal address at the dedication of the Gettysburg National Cemetery.

And so, as a felicitation to Mrs. Tate upon her birthday . . .

MRS. ANNIE TATE

and we wish her many more years of happiness . . . this little piece is published to recount and make public recognition of the accomplishments of her Sunday School class . . . a class she has taught for 55 years.

Mrs. Tate was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Z. Tawney. "I was born over there on Wolf's Hill, right across from Spangler's Spring. I'm proud of that," says this little active Sunday School teacher.

At an early age she became a member of the Methodist church. That first church is now the G. A. R. Post home on East Middle street. In that edifice she attended Sunday School and church services, regularly . . . and to this date, unless illness prevents, is a regular attendant at Sunday School, morning and evening services on Sunday and Wednesday evening prayer meeting . . . in addition to special monthly sessions . . . on Tuesdays . . . of her Sunday school class.

In her early twenties Mrs. Tate organized a Sunday School class with two members.

As was the custom in those days she named her class after an ardent and faithful church worker, Mrs. S. C. Burger, formerly Miss Magdalena Keith, sister of the late John D. Keith, Esq., and daughter of the late Rev. Dr. and Mrs. William H. Keith, for many years a prominent Methodist clergyman, and former pastor of the local church.

Magdalena Keith Burger was an active Methodist church worker. She married Rev. Dr. S. C. Burger, a prominent Lutheran missionary in Guntur, India. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. John Aberly, retired President of the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological Seminary who was then serving as a missionary in India. For many years Mrs. Burger served the missions in India and because of this loyal service she was so honored by Mrs. Tate.

Mrs. Tate's Sunday School class is one of her most cherished interests. She is unwaveringly devoted to her work and looks forward with keen delight to her weekly and monthly meetings.

Our interview with her was not fruitful of many details. Mrs. Tate was reluctant to talk about her service to the church. (Please Turn to Page 2)

Blast Nazis At Important Naval Harbor

By The Associated Press

London, Nov. 21—United States and British troops grappled with German forces in the outer defenses of Tunisia's main strongholds of Bizerte and Tunis today in a battle which an Allied spokesman predicted would grow in bitter intensity hour by hour.

Pressed into a narrow coastal stretch only 30 miles wide at some points between the important French Naval base of Bizerte and Tunis, capital of Tunisia, the Germans were pounded from the air by flying fortresses and RAF bombers as the bitter struggle on the ground unfolded.

25 Miles From Tunis

Adolf Hitler was reported sending a stream of reinforcements into this fading foothold in north Africa. The Allied troops were reported within 30 miles of both cities and one vanguard was placed even closer, 25 miles southeast of Tunis.

A spokesman at Allied headquarters said "it is certain that the struggle for control of Tunisia is growing in intensity."

The Algiers radio reported early today that "Allied armored troops are pouring across the Tunisian border. . ."

"Allied parachutists," the announcer said, "are proceeding eastward without making contact with the enemy."

Several bombs were dropped in Algiers last night and caused "some damage," the radio report said. The alert lasted 80 minutes. Bone, an Algerian city near the Tunisian border, had three alarms Friday, it was reported.

Down Nine Planes

A French headquarters communique broadcast by the Morocco radio said it was "a calm day."

From Axis-held airfields in the coastal strip, German planes went up to challenge the advancing Allied troops and they were engaged by Allied fighters in furious air battles. Nine Axis planes were reported shot down by the RAF.

Pressure on shattered remnants of the Axis north African armies was reported increasing from three sides. The British Eighth Army, in triumphant but careful pursuit of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's broken Africa corps, was approaching the marshy bottleneck at El Agheila in Libya where the Germans were expected to make a stand. Rommel already had abandoned Bengasi to the British.

British In Bengasi

The Eighth Army caught up with rearguards of Rommel's forces in the Agadabia area, about 100 miles south of Bengasi, yesterday while other British units moved into Bengasi and triumphantly hoisted the British flag over the port city.

The British communique gave no indication as to the disposition of the remaining mass of Rommel's Army, but it was believed to be in the El Agheila region.

While poor flying weather hampered Allied pilots in their pursuit and attacks on the retreating forces in the desert, British bombers from Malta attacked Axis airdromes in Sicily and shipping off the Tunisian coast. One 2,000-ton ship was reported bombed and torpedoed and left sinking. Another vessel as hit off Cape Bon, Tunisia.

To the west there lay a forbidding 400-mile stretch of Libyan sand to Tripoli, main Libyan base of the Axis. The Algiers radio reported that fighting French forces were striking northward toward Tripoli from the Lake Chad region, 1,000 miles to the south. There is no sea-port worthy of the name between Bengasi and Tripoli through which Rommel might receive supplies and reinforcements.

The objective of such a northward march by the fighting French would be to trap the retreating remnants of Rommel's army somewhere between El Agheila and Tripoli.

An Allied force from Algiers was believed cutting eastward across central Tunisia toward Gabes and the coastal road to Tripoli, 80 miles beyond the Tunisian border.

NOVEMBER BOND QUOTA $143,535

Adams county's November quota for the sale of war bonds and stamps is $143,535, almost six thousand dollars more than the quota for October, Edmund W. Thomas, chairman of the county's bond and stamp committee, announced today.

"The splendid accomplishment of committee members in selling $160,217.50 worth of war bonds and stamps in October, exceeding the quota by more than $23,000 drew high praise from the Treasury department," said Mr. Thomas. "It is only natural to assume that the same cooperative efforts, coupled with the generous patriotic spirit of Adams countians will be reflected in the November sales which I feel confident will at least total the quota set by the treasury department. SPECIAL MART SESSION HERE ON WEDNESDAY

With a special Thanksgiving session of Farmers' Market announced for next Wednesday morning, farmers were taking orders this morning for chickens, ducks and turkeys for delivery next week.

Advance orders indicated that ducks will be more in demand this Thanksgiving than turkeys chiefly because the price of the traditional Thanksgiving bird has reached its highest level in the last 10 years.

The general price for turkeys at the Farmers' Market is 35 cents for gobblers and 40 cents for hens, live-weight, with a 50-cent charge per bird for dressing. Fewer orders were being taken on the dressed weight basis of 60 and 65 cents per pound.

Duck prices have gone up in the last two weeks but remain lower than turkeys. Muscovy ducks are selling at 25 cents a pound live-weight and 40 cents dressed. Dressed chickens brought 45 cents a pound at most stands. There was no price available on geese but some of the farmers said they have been told the liveweight price is 20 cents a pound.

Prices Are Higher

Not only is the price of meat for the Thanksgiving dinner above last year's level but other standard holiday meal dishes too will be more costly. Sauerkraut sold for 40 cents a quart and potatoes ranged from $1.85 to $2 a bushel. Sweet potatoes were $2 a bushel or 15 cents for a quart box. Choice apples sold at about $1.75 a bushel. Egg prices showed no change but ranged from 45 to 53 cents with most stands asking 50 cents for standard whites. Turnips were 15 cents a half peck.

Pork and its products continued in good demand today. At most butcher stands these prices were quoted: Sausage, 38 cents a pound; scrapple, 15 cents; back bone and ribs, 28 cents; sirloin, 55 cents; lard, 18 cents; pudding, 30 cents; pigs' feet, 30 cents; shoulder steak, 35 cents; roasts, 35 cents; pigs' stomachs, 30 cents, and pork liver, 30 cents.

Marines Fighting For Souvenirs While Japs Fight For Their Lives

Pearl Harbor, T. H., Nov. 21 (AP)—The United States Marines on Guadalcanal, cheered by the Navy's great triumph over the Japanese fleet last week-end, are looking for more islands to conquer.

Lieut. DeWitt Peterkin, first American Naval officer to arrive here from the Solomons since the Navy's victory Nov. 14-15, said he believed some 10,000 Japanese have been killed on Guadalcanal.

"The Marines and other forces felt better after last week-end's big Naval battle than anytime since I was here," said Peterkin of New York, an assistant to the J. P. Morgan partners before he entered the service.

"In honor of Mrs. Annie Tate for faithful service to this church."

This is the inscription on the base of a large brass cross on the altar in the Gettysburg Methodist church, a tribute to more than half a century of service as a Sunday School teacher . . . perhaps the longest period of such service in this community.

On Sunday, November 22nd, Mrs. Annie Tate will observe the seventy-ninth anniversary of her birth . . . in a modest little home on the Battlefield, three days after Abraham Lincoln delivered his immortal address at the dedication of the Gettysburg National Cemetery.

And so, as a felicitation to Mrs. Tate upon her birthday . . .

and we wish her many more years of happiness . . . this little piece is published to recount and make public recognition of the accomplishments of her Sunday School class . . . a class she has taught for 55 years.

Mrs. Tate was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Z. Tawney. "I was born over there on Wolf's Hill, right across from Spangler's Spring. I'm proud of that," says this little active Sunday School teacher.

At an early age she became a member of the Methodist church. That first church is now the G. A. R. Post home on East Middle street. In that edifice she attended Sunday School and church services, regularly . . . and to this date, unless illness prevents, is a regular attendant at Sunday School, morning and evening services on Sunday and Wednesday evening prayer meeting . . . in addition to special monthly sessions . . . on Tuesdays . . . of her Sunday school class.

In her early twenties Mrs. Tate organized a Sunday School class with two members.

As was the custom in those days she named her class after an ardent and faithful church worker, Mrs. S. C. Burger, formerly Miss Magdalen Keith, sister of the late John D. Keith, Esq., and daughter of the late Rev. Dr. and Mrs. William H. Keith, for many years a prominent Methodist clergyman, and former pastor of the local church.

Magdalen Keith Burger was an active Methodist church worker. She married Rev. Dr. S. C. Burger, a prominent Lutheran missionary in Guntur, India. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. John Aberly, retired President of the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological Seminary who was then serving as a missionary in India. For many years Mrs. Burger served the missions in India and because of this loyal service she was so honored by Mrs. Tate.

Mrs. Tate's Sunday School class is one of her most cherished interests. She is unwaveringly devoted to her work and looks forward with keen delight to her weekly and monthly meetings.

Our interview with her was not fruitful of many details. Mrs. Tate was reluctant to talk about her service to the church. (Please Turn to Page 2)

Blast Nazis At Important Naval Harbor

By The Associated Press

London, Nov. 21—United States and British troops grappled with German forces in the outer defenses of Tunisia's main strongholds of Bizerte and Tunis today in a battle which an Allied spokesman predicted would grow in bitter intensity hour by hour.

Pressed into a narrow coastal stretch only 30 miles wide at some points between the important French Naval base of Bizerte and Tunis, capital of Tunisia, the Germans were pounded from the air by flying fortresses and RAF bombers as the bitter struggle on the ground unfolded.

25 Miles From Tunis

Adolf Hitler was reported sending a stream of reinforcements into this fading foothold in north Africa. The Allied troops were reported within 30 miles of both cities and one vanguard was placed even closer, 25 miles southeast of Tunis.

A spokesman at Allied headquarters said "it is certain that the struggle for control of Tunisia is growing in intensity." The Algiers radio reported early today that "Allied armored troops are pouring across the Tunisian border. . . ."

"Allied parachutists," the announcer said, "are proceeding eastward without making contact with the enemy."

Several bombs were dropped in Algiers last night and caused "some damage," the radio report said. The alert lasted 80 minutes. Bone, an Algerian city near the Tunisian border, had three alarms Friday, it was reported.

Down Nine Planes

A French headquarters communique broadcast by the Morocco radio said it was "a calm day."

From Axis-held airfields in the coastal strip, German planes went up to challenge the advancing Allied troops and they were engaged by Allied fighters in furious air battles. Nine Axis planes were reported shot down by the RAF.

Pressure on shattered remnants of the Axis north African armies was reported increasing from three sides.

The British Eighth Army, in triumphant but careful pursuit of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's broken Africa corps, was approaching the marshy bottleneck at El Agheila in Libya where the Germans were expected to make a stand. Rommel already had abandoned Bengasi to the British.

British In Bengasi

The Eighth Army caught up with rearguards of Rommel's forces in the Agedabia area, about 100 miles south of Bengasi, yesterday while other British units moved into Bengasi and triumphantly hoisted the British flag over the port city.

The British communique gave no indication as to the disposition of the remaining mass of Rommel's Army, but it was believed to be in the El Agheila region.

While poor flying weather hampered Allied pilots in their pursuit and attacks on the retreating forces in the desert, British bombers from Malta attacked Axis airbases in Sicily and shipping off the Tunisian coast. One 2,000-ton ship was reported bombed and torpedoed and left sinking. Another vessel as hit off Cape Bon, Tunisia.

400 Miles of Sand

To the west there lay a forbidding 400-mile stretch of Libyan sand to Tripoli, main Libyan base of the Axis. The Algiers radio reported that fighting French forces were striking northward toward Tripoli from the Lake Chad region, 1,000 miles to the south. There is no seaport worthy of the name between Bengasi and Tripoli through which Rommel might receive supplies and reinforcements.

The objective of such a northward march by the fighting French would be to trap the retreating remnants of Rommel's army somewhere between El Agheila and Tripoli.

An Allied force from Algiers was believed cutting eastward across central Tunisia toward Gabes and the coastal road to Tripoli, 80 miles beyond the Tunisian border.

Gettysburg women bridge players got an unexpected "peek" at how Uncle Sam is training his huge army the other night with the result that they may have given aid to the "enemy" and maybe they didn't... because no one knows even who was the "enemy."

While Mrs. Richard Brown was entertaining a bridge club at her home on the Fairfield road two soldiers appeared at the home and asked for something to eat. Rather surprised at this unusual request Mrs. Brown did not know what to do... she knows that Uncle Sam feeds his army well.

However, the two soldiers finally persuaded Mrs. Brown with their story. They said they were sent out from their camp (they did not say where their camp was located) without food or money and directed to reach a specified objective and return to camp within a specified time... to avoid being "captured" by a patrol that would be sent in pursuit shortly after they left camp... that they would have to forage for their food, make their way as best as possible... but in any event to avoid "capture."

That sounded like a good story and so Mrs. Brown set out a fine meal for the two young men which they ate with considerable zest and appreciation. When they were finished they thanked Mrs. Brown, stepped outside, darted around the side of the house and out across the open field in the rear of the home. They had said that they were avoiding all main highways and were on their way back to camp.

It's a pleasure and a privilege to be a resident of Gettysburg and Adams county. When it comes to doing things in a big way Adams county is second to no other county in the state. Here are some supporting facts: The Red Cross asked us to raise $13,000. We went over the top. The Treasury department asked us to sell $136,700 worth of war bonds in October. We went over the top by more than $22,000. The USO asked us to raise $5,000 in two weeks. We went over the top by more than $1,000. And so it goes. One after another and Adams county always comes through.

Yes, Uncle Sam, you can always depend on Adams county.

"Forward With Books" is the nation-wide theme of the twenty-fourth annual festival Bookweek. Over the radio, in the press, schools, churches, clubs, libraries, and homes the theme is developed in a country-wide effort to increase wider love of books for information as well as for morale building and recreation. Public opinion grows out of an aroused interest and books help in this. The most remote home is no longer isolated from the good effects of good reading—nor should it be possible longer for any citizen to suffer from too few books received too late. In war as in peace, books continue to be the medium through which the greater part of public education at all age levels must be carried on.

It is the purpose of Bookweek to develop on a nation-wide basis the love of books, an increased public appreciation of books, an increased public demand for public book facilities, and to encourage private book ownership and companionship.

With the national theme as its goal, Adams County observes Bookweek, November 15-21. "Forward With Books" is the center of book displays, club discussions, school assemblies, sermons, and fireside home readings. Adams counties are invited each in some appropriate way to observe "Book Week."

YANKEES TRAP JAPANESE IN BUNA DISTRICT

By DEAN SCHEDLER

Somewhere in New Guinea, Nov. 21 (AP)—Japanese forces trapped in a narrow coastal strip in the Buna-Gona district of New Guinea were reported fighting back desperately today as American and Australian ground troops moved in relentlessly to drive them into the sea or force their capitulation.

One United States force was within a mile of Buna and engaged heavy fighting and another was attempting to wrest a landing field on the outskirts of the village from the defending Japanese. This second unit reported that it had met heavy machine-gun fire within 500 yards of the field.

Japanese fighter planes entered the fighting near Buna yesterday and seven zeros strafed Allied troops already under attack from light artillery and mortars. Allied observers said the Buna area also had been reinforced with anti-aircraft guns.

Weather Grounds Planes
Bad weather prevented Allied air units from giving the ground troops the aerial support which they have had in the difficult advance over the Owen Stanley mountains.

One American force approaching Buna from the south along the coast was trying to overcome opposition at Cape Endiader, a few miles from the village. Heavy fighting was in progress at Soputa, about eight miles inland from the coast on the Kokoda-Buna trail.

The main body of the Japanese forces, however, has been driven into a triangular area bound by a six-mile coastal strip between Buna and Gona and irregular lines running inland from these hamlets to Soputa.

The bitter struggle of the Japanese in this area indicated to observers that they had no intention of surrendering and a battle of extermination seemed to be in progress.

Here And There

News Collected At Random

She did, however, offer a correction. She said her service was not for the Methodist church but "for the Lord."

But from others we gathered some of the highlights of the activities of her Sunday School class.

The class started with two members. Now it has 39. They are all active. Some of her present members are grandchildren of her first members.

The class meets regularly every Sunday morning. Once each month it assembles at a member's home . . . on a few occasions it has met at the church for its monthly sessions. The class is the only one in the church to help meet running expenses of the church through the regular weekly envelope system.

In addition to this contribution each member of the class pays dues. Sometimes a special assessment is levied. It sponsors church suppers, food sales and other functions to raise funds. For many years it held an annual picnic but for the past three years the picnic has been postponed because of deaths.

From these varied functions the class raises a considerable sum of money which is either given outright to the church or spent on improvements, gifts or such for the church.

For instance the class presented to the church the following:

A large silk Christian flag; a large painting of Christ; a velvet altar cloth, maroon colored with gold fringe; a silver service costing more than $100; four pulpit chairs costing more than $200 and many other gifts. It made substantial donations to redecorate the church and cash contributions on numerous other occasions.

One member of the church said: "We can always count on something from Mrs. Tate's class."

Mrs. Tate personally presented two large brass candlesticks for the church altar in memory of her daughter Mrs. Elizabeth Pauls.

Despite her seventy-nine years Mrs. Tate is unusually active. She enjoys good health and "I take care of myself," she proudly boasts.

She is proud of her Sunday School class, of every member, and what they are doing but her expression reflects the extreme happiness that is hers when she is reminded that the cross on the church altar bears an inscription of tribute to her faithful service.

The cross was presented by Dr. R. D. Wickerham and family.

LAVAL AGAIN CASTS HIS LOT WITH GERMANY

Vichy (from French Broadcasts)

Nov. 21 (AP)—Pierre Laval advocated an alliance with Germany as Europe's sole hope for peace in a broadcast to the people of Nazi-occupied France last night and declared new volunteer legions would be raised to answer "the fresh insults which France has had to suffer" from the Allied campaign in North Africa.

"We are again seeking reconciliation and an entente with Germany," Laval declared in his first address since he was given dictatorial powers and named as political heir to Marshal Petain.

He accused the United States and Britain of "tearing away bit by bit at the French empire because of their losses in the Pacific; said he was certain of a German victory.

"From what has happened in North Africa we have discovered the fate that waits us tomorrow if Roosevelt gets away with it," Laval said. "We would have to submit to a domination by communists and Jews."

(The dark little collaborationist's talk of volunteer legions—such as the detachments which have fought alongside the Germans on the Russian front—suggested that Laval was not prepared at this time to thrust the nation into a formal state of war against the Allies.)

In his 15-minute speech Laval assured his people again that Germany would not lose the war, declared he had tried to maintain peace with the United States and blamed President Roosevelt for bringing French and Americans to gunpoint after centuries of friendship.

LOCAL COMPANY

ent program is completed.

The new feed building, which will be inspected next Tuesday, is two stories high and has a 68-foot cupola. The building proper measures 48 x 48 feet and has a wing 24 x 24 feet.

A foundation is being excavated for a fertilizer plant that will be ready for occupancy about next February 1. There also will be a building constructed for the storage of fertilizer.

An insecticide building also is contemplated and is expected to be finished February 1.

In the meantime, temporary quarters are meeting the needs of the corporation, with the exception of the feed manufacturing processes which were transferred to the new building since November 1.

Mr. Spangler reported today that sections of the debris from the fire in March still are smoking.

Since the formation of the partnership in 1900 and through the incorporation until the present time, Mr. Oyler and Mr. Spangler have divided the supervision of the business. The former has been responsible largely for contacting the farmers and the latter has taken care of the wholesale outlets for the firm.

Both men are members of the Gettysburg Rotary club and are active in other civic groups in the community. Mr. Oyler is serving as an associate judge of Adams county.

Cover 5 Counties

The business of the corporation today is scattered over five counties — Adams, York, Lancaster, Franklin and Cumberland—but Mr. Spangler recalled recently some of the experiences he had while conducting the business in its early years when it was serving this area principally.

One of the first places in the county to be visited by Mr. Spangler was Gardners. He recalled that it was his custom to drive his horse and buggy to Gardners, where he would replace his tired horse with a mule secured from Park Gardner, and then start visiting the farmers to take orders. When the feed and fertilizer were ready to be delivered to Gardners by train, Mr. Spangler would go along and distribute the orders to the farmers. This operation usually took two days, he recalled.

In addition to the corporation's business, Mr. Oyler and Mr. Spangler operate two farms adjoining the plant. One farm has 100 acres and the other has 150 acres.

Modern Equipment

Up-to-date equipment has been placed in the new feed building. Included are the following: Roughage cutter, two hammer mills, corn sheller, three elevators, two dry mixers, one molasses mixer, belt conveyor, corn cutter, grain cleaner and separator and dry molasses mixer.

Carl Oyler, son of Mr. Oyler, has been foreman of the corporation since 1918. His employment with the company started many years before that time. Charles B. Kuhns has been the firm's bookkeeper for the last ten years.

M. C. Morton, of Hagerstown, is president of the Central Chemical corporation of Pennsylvania (Oyler and Spangler) and vice president of the Central Chemical corporation of Maryland.

Civilian defense costs are now a major item in the budgets of most American cities.

Upper Communities

The annual banquet of the Ira E. Lady post of the American Legion and its Auxiliary will be held this evening in the basement of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Biglerville.

Mrs. Blaine G. Walter, Biglerville, and Mrs. Howard L. Moore, Gettysburg, were visitors in Carlisle Friday.

The Biglerville fire company was called out Friday afternoon by an accidental sounding of the siren at the C. H. Musselman plant.

"Youths' Call to Youth" will be the topic for discussion at the Sunday evening meeting of the Christian Endeavor society of the Biglerville United Brethren church. The meeting will be at 6:30 o'clock. Miss Mildred Price will be the leader.

The Merz evaporating plant will continue operations in Biglerville for another week.

Truck Certificate Deadline Postponed

Farmers who have not yet obtained certificates of War Necessity for trucks under the ruling of the office of Defense Transportation requiring such certification have until December 1 to obtain them, it was announced here today by Harrison P. Snyder, chairman of the Adams county War Board.

The ODT has postponed the effective date for Certificates of War Necessity from November 15 to December 1 while the OPA has postponed the effective date of nationwide gasoline rationing to December 1.

The OPA regulations will permit the issuance of temporary gasoline rationations after December 1 to anyone who has applied for a Certificate of War Necessity but who has not received it. Farmers who have not yet made application to the ODT for a certificate of War Necessity are urged to get in touch with their county farm transportation committee immediately. The committee headquarters is located at the Farm Bureau building on North Washington street.

GOP TO PICK CHAIRMAN ON DECEMBER 7TH

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—Republican leaders, sifting party ranks for a new national committee chairman, were on the lookout today for something akin to a political paragon who could:

1. Keep the various party factions "pacified,"
2. Devote his time to building up the party organization, and
3. Refrain from boosting the cause of any individual for the 1944 presidential nomination.

Despite these admittedly stiff qualifications, Republican chieftains were sorting out a dozen or more possibilities as candidates for the job of Joseph W. Martin, Jr., who is resigning to give all his time to his duties as House minority leader.

The committee will meet December 7 in St. Louis to select Martin's successor.

Willkie's friends here said he favors J. Kenneth Bradley, national committeeman for Connecticut, or Sinclair Weeks, Massachusetts committeeman, for the chairmanship, or some westerner if either of these is not available. They said he is opposed to Werner W. Schroeder, Illinois committeeman, on the contention that he was "too isolationist" before the war.

Many Mentioned

Associates of Thomas E. Dewey, New York governor-elect and a runner-up to Willkie in the 1940 convention, reported that he has no particular choice for chairman. The same is said in behalf of Senator Robert H. Taft, of Ohio, another prominent candidate for the presidential nomination two years ago.

The name of John D. M. Hamilton, party chairman from 1936-40 and now a practicing attorney in Philadelphia, also has been mentioned as a compromise. Others who have been discussed include:

Alf M. Landon, 1936 presidential standard bearer and former governor of Kansas; National Committeemen Harrison E. Spangler, Iowa; Walter S. Hallanan, West Virginia; Robert P. Burroughs, New Hampshire, and Barak T. Mattingly, Missouri, and State Chairmen Ralph F. Gates, Indiana, and Alexander Smith, New Jersey.

CAPTURED NAZI SCORES HITLER

London, Nov. 21 (AP)—Gen. Ritter von Thoma, the first captured German general to arrive in London, is reported by the Daily Mail's military writer to have held in talks with the British that "Hitler has ruined the Reichswehr."

The officer disclosed "remarkable facts about the bitter feeling prevalent in the inner circles of the German general staff," the writer said.

Captured by the British Nov. 4 while serving as commander of the Nazi African Corps under Marshal Rommel, Von Thoma was described as one of the school of professional German soldiers who "dispute any encroachment in their sphere by civilians or politicians and all members of the Nazi party, including Hitler himself."

"He is believed to have said that Hitler's assumption of the supreme command spells disaster to the war machine built up by the devotion of the great general staff," the writer said. "Hitler's economic policy also has been severely criticized by Von Thoma. This agrees with recent reports from neutral sources."

Among British prisoners the general ranks second only to Rudolf Hess, Hitler's former No. 2 deputy who has been held since he flew to Scotland from Germany May 10, 1941.

Pupils May Buy Bonds With Savings

Pittsburgh, Nov. 21 (AP)—Parents of 141,000 Pittsburgh children probably will be asked next week to decide whether the $1,300,000 now held in the School Children's Savings account at Union Savings bank should be converted into Series E U. S. War Savings bonds.

The Pittsburgh Board of Public Education's finance and administration committee has recommended the present system of students' accounts, believed to be the largest in the nation, be discontinued.

Tradition Sparks Collegiate Football Contests Today From Coast To Coast

YALE FAVORED OVER HARVARD IN IVY CLASH

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Tradition takes over today's football program.
There's the hoary Yale-Harvard contest at New Haven, the coast's big game of Stamford and California, Mississippi State's encounter with Mississippi, Indiana's affair with Purdue and Boston college against smaller Boston university.
And the Big Ten keeps alive its tradition of having at least two "bowl" games every week of the season with Michigan at Ohio State and Minnesota at Wisconsin.
The Michigan-Ohio State fray is expected to lure 80,000 spectators for a glimpse at two of the season's finest backfields.
Gene Fekete and Paul Sarringhaus are the misters big in the outfit young Paul Brown has welded together in his second year at the Buckeye school while Tom Kuzma, now that he is whole again, does the heavy work for Michigan.
Title Clash
An Ohio State victory would give the Brownmen the conference title while a Michigan triumph would delay the flag raising at Ann Arbor until the outcome of this afternoon's meeting between Wisconsin and Minnesota and next week's tussle involving Iowa and Michigan.
The Big Three title hinges on the outcome of the Yale-Harvard get-together. Yale hasn't scored on the Maroon team since 1939 but the Elis are favored today, making it possible that young Howie Odell, a strong candidate for the coach of the year honors, will tutor a title club in his first season at New Haven. Until this campaign Yale had won only two games in two seasons.
Boston college, although its co-captains Halfback Mike Holovak and Center Fred Naumetz are handicapped by colds, should have little difficulty handling neighboring Boston university, and Tulsa, also plunging along undefeated, opposes Creighton in a Missouri Valley struggle.
The south's twin juggernauts, Georgia and Georgia Tech, also take the field today with the Engineers or Bill Alexander slated with little more than a heavy scrimmage against Florida. Georgia, however, may find the going difficult against Auburn, a team that was good enough to make Louisiana State regret its hospitality.
Other Battles
Other southern meetings are Vanderbilt-Tennessee, North Carolina State vs. Duke and North Carolina at Virginia. In the southwest loop, where Texas and Texas A and M are idle in preparation for their Turkey Day meeting, Baylor plays Southern Methodist and Rice mixes with Texas Christian.
The east has the replay of last January's Sugar Bowl game with a beaten Missouri opposing a battered Fordham. Princeton closes its season against Army in Yankee stadium and Paul Gervanelli writes flits to his Columbia career needing 239 yards to establish a collegiate passing mark. Dartmouth is the opponent.
Washington and UCLA, trying to keep in the coast picture, share the coast limelight with the Stanford-California game and Oregon-Oregon State are rivals in the far northwest.

YOUTH IS PITTED AGAINST VETERAN

Columbus, O., Nov. 21 (AP)—Paul Brown of Ohio State pits his youthful coaching skills against Michigan's veteran Fritz Crisler as their powerful football teams battle before 80,000 fans today.
A win would give Ohio an undisputed championship in Brown's second year in the Big Ten.
At stake for Crisler is his record of not having lost to an Ohio team since he took over the Michigan coaching reins in 1933. But he has had plenty of respect for Brown's skill since an underdog Ohio team deadlocked Michigan 20-0 in 1941. Brown's first year out of high school ranks.
Michigan got some bad news with the information that Ohio's fastest halfback, pint-sized Tommy James, would be able to see some action despite a shoulder separation suffered in the Illinois game last week.
Brown said, however, "I'm not planning to use him unless someone unforeseen comes up when I can use him in a spot-run." James' spot running accounted for two touchdowns against Illinois.

BOOST EAGLES AS Foe OF A GEORGIA TEAM

By DILLION GRAHAM
New York, Nov. 21—This corner casts an unsolicited vote for a bowl game between Boston College and one of the Georgias.
Such a post-season duel would just about settle the national grid championship. Boston should trample both Holy Cross and Boston U. to finish its season unbeaten. And either Georgia U. or Georgia Tech—they tangle in Atlanta Nov. 28—should also have a spotless record. Too bad they can't have a round-robin and ring in unwhipped Tulsa.
Your correspondent hails from the mint julep country and is just as strong a Georgia rooter as the next one down around Athens, Jaw-ja. And he spent many a cold fall afternoon in Grant Field, Atlanta, cheering on Bill Alexander's Engineers. But—look out for cover folks, these Southerners take their football seriously—he thinks Boston College has the best college football team in the country, a team that might beat any of the pros except the Bears and possibly the Redskins.
That's why I hope the Georgia vs. Tech victor tackles BC in some-bow's bowl. It will settle the issue that can't be settled in print. A Yankee boy who made his college football reputation down South, Carl Brumbaugh of the University of Florida, coaches the BC backfield. And his fine tutoring is largely responsible for the Eagles' success. Hunk Anderson of the Bears says that BC has adapted the "T" formation to a greater degree and gets more out of it than any other college team he's seen.
Denny Myers' Eagles are big and fast. Other teams may be as big and some may be as fast, but I doubt if there's another club as big and fast as these Bostonians. Working off this "T," they have split-second timing to hit their quick breaking holes right on the dot. And there's so much power and speed in their running attack that a ball carrier can seldom be stopped without a sizable gain.
Fordham wouldn't be ranked as one of the better teams this year but I would wager a few greenbacks that BC is the only team that could wallop the Rams by eight touchdowns. Furthermore, no one has kicked Georgetown around like BC did, 47-0. It's the only team that has whipped Jim Crowley's Navy Pre-Flighters.
As it turns out, Crowley's team is the only BC rival that can be tabbed an A-1 team. Perhaps it wasn't quite as tough a schedule as Georgia's which listed Alabama and Georgia Tech as top foes. Of the three, Tech has rammed along the rockiest road. The Engineers beat Notre Dame and Alabama, whipped a good Eastern team in Navy and walloped one of Carolina's best, Duke.
I somehow feel that Georgia has an edge over Tech as their battle approaches. Georgia was a stand-out team last year. Tech wasn't. Georgia has Sinkwich and Tech can't match him in all-round brilliance and versatility. Georgia should win. But I've got a hunch that Tech is going to spill the Bulldogs.
What are the other ranking teams of the country? This corner offers:
1. Boston College
2. Georgia
3. Georgia Tech
4. Michigan
5. Ohio State
6. Alabama
7. Minnesota
8. Tulsa
9. Notre Dame
10. Tennessee
That rating isn't on the basis of games won and lost, for, if that was the case, Minnesota, with three shellackings in its first eight games, wouldn't belong. Alabama has been beaten twice. So has Michigan and Notre Dame. But studying the schedules and the games that's how I figure they stack up. And I don't think the final AP poll will differ very greatly.

JURKOVICH'S A GREAT BACK —When He's Conscious

By SAM JACKSON
AP Writer
Berkeley, Calif., Nov. 21—It looks as if Jim Jurkovich, the "orchid man of football," is going to round out a real gridiron career and give the All-America pickers a puzzle.
His problem will be whether a great player should be ruled out, because of a tendency to pass out cold in the heat of conflict.
It may be a flying shoe to the head, an elbow to the jaw, or some mysterious jolt in scrimmage—but Jurkovich can't even remember—but the fact remains that the University of California's outstanding backfield star has frequently been carted away unconscious. "Orchid man" is just one of the nicknames given him but when he's conscious and clicking his fists prefer the term "Jolting Jim."
Not Listed On Roster
Jurkovich was considered so definitely through with football that he was not even listed in the Golden Bear's roster for 1942. But he appeared for practice equipped with a special guard for his vulnerable chin and an unquenchable desire to play football.
At this writing "Jurk" is still playing, and playing great.
In his best game of the season—California's 20-7 victory over Oregon—his teammates were seen trying to get him to leave the field and the trainer went out several times to see if he was all right.
But not until the game was on ice did Jurkovich withdraw. He had gained 75 yards from scrimmage and set up 75 more by completing six out of nine passes. After the game, Coach John Warren of Oregon said, "We were beaten by Jim Jurkovich, that's all."
"Jurk" was a football and track man at the Fresno, California, high school, and the brilliant star of the freshman team in college.
As a sophomore, he was knocked out in practice and knocked out toward the end of the season, but in between he played outstanding football. Interception of a forward pass for a goal-to-goal touchdown run against U.S.C. was his brightest exploit.
Just before the 1941 season, he married a California co-ed. Starting the season like a sure-fire All-American, he quickly was in the hospital again—this time going out cold when tackled returning a punt against Washington State.
Coach Stubb Allison and Dr. James Harkness, the team physician, agreed that Jurkovich had better give up football for good.
But that was 1941 and this is 1942. With his senior year started and the likelihood of early military service in mind, Jurkovich convinced himself and his campus authorities that he should play. So far, and pending sudden news from the medical department, he seems to have been right.

Tradition Sparks Collegiate Football Contests Today From Coast To Coast

YALE FAVORED OVER HARVARD IN IVY CLASH

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Tradition takes over today's football program.

There's the hoary Yale-Harvard contest at New Haven, the coast's big game of Stanford and California, Mississippi State's encounter with Mississippi, Indiana's affair with Purdue and Boston college against smaller Boston university.

And the Big Ten keeps alive its tradition of having at least two "bowl" games every week of the season with Michigan at Ohio State and Minnesota at Wisconsin.

The Michigan-Ohio State fray is expected to lure 80,000 spectators for a glimpse at two of the season's finest backfields.

Gene Fekete and Paul Sarringhaus are the misters big in the outfit young Paul Brown has welded together in his second year at the Buckeye school while Tom Kuzma, now that he is whole again, does the heavy work for Michigan.

Title Clash
An Ohio State victory would give the Brownmen the conference title while a Michigan triumph would delay the flag raising at Ann Arbor until the outcome of this afternoon's meeting between Wisconsin and Minnesota and next week's tussle involving Iowa and Michigan.

The Big Three title hinges on the outcome of the Yale-Harvard get-together. Yale hasn't scored on the Maroon team since 1939 but the Elis are favored today, making it possible that young Howie Odell, a strong candidate for the coach of the year honors, will tutor a title club in his first season at New Haven. Until this campaign Yale had won only two games in two seasons.

Boston college, although its co-captains Halfback Mike Holovak and Center Fred Naumet are handicapped by colds, should have little difficulty handling neighboring Boston university, and Tulsa, also plugging along undefeated, opposes Creighton in a Missouri Valley struggle.

The south's twin juggernauts, Georgia and Georgia Tech, also take the field today with the Engineers, as Bill Alexander slated with little more than a heavy scrimmage against Florida. Georgia, however may find the going difficult against Auburn, a team that was good enough to make Louisiana State regret its hospitalities.

Other Battles
Other southern meetings are Vanderbilt-Tennessee, North Carolina State vs. Duke and North Carolina at Virginia. In the southwest loop, where Texas and Texas A and M are idle in preparation for their Turkey Day meeting, Baylor plays Southern Methodist and Rice mixes with Texas Christian.

The east has the replay of last January's Sugar Bowl game with a beaten Missouri opposing a battered Fordham. Princeton closes its season against Army in Yankee stadium and Paul Governali writes fins to his Columbia career ending 239 yards to establish a collegiate passing mark. Dartmouth is the opponent.

Washington and UCLA, trying to keep in the coast picture, share the coast limelight with the Stanford-California game and Oregon-Oregon State are rivals in the far northwest.

On the intersectional program, Arkansas takes its lowly record to Detroit, West Virginia invades Michigan State and Oklahoma tests Temple's Owls.

STEELERS VS. CARDS
Pittsburgh, Nov. 21 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers will seek their sixth victory of the season against the Chicago Cardinals tomorrow in a National Football league pro game postponed from September 27. A crowd of 20,000 is expected. Marshall Goldberg and Bill Daddio, former Pitt stars, will be in the Cardinals lineup.

FIGHT RESULTS
Philadelphia, Nov. 21 (AP)—Jim Elliott, 160, Baltimore, won a unanimous decision over Frank Lowry, 152, Philadelphia, in the final bout of a boxing show at the Cambria last night. Jim McAllister, 139, Baltimore, outpointed Tony Pirrone, 135, Philadelphia, in the six-round semi-final.

Noted Biographer Of Women Expires

Plainfield, N. J., Nov. 21 (AP)—Mrs. Margaret T. O'Hara of Philadelphia, biographer of prominent women and a former teacher at Bucknell university, Lewisburg, Pa., died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lucius T. Koons. She was 76.

Mrs. O'Hara had served as vice president of the Federation of Pennsylvania Women and as a member of the national committee on marriage and the home of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. She was a daughter of the late Francis W. Tustin, former vice president of Bucknell.

Youth Is Pitted Against Veteran

Columbus, O., Nov. 21 (AP)—Paul Brown of Ohio State pits his youthful coaching skill against Michigan's veteran Fritz Crisler as their powerful football teams battle before 80,000 fans today.

A win would give Ohio an undisputed championship in Brown's second year in the Big Ten.

At stake for Crisler is his record of not having lost to an Ohio team since he took over the Michigan coaching reins in 1938. But he has had plenty of respect for Brown's skill since an underdog Ohio team deadlocked Michigan 20-0 in 1941, Brown's first year out of high school ranks.

Michigan got some bad news with the information that Ohio's fastest halfback, pint-sized Tommy James, would be able to see some action despite a shoulder separation suffered in the Illinois game last week.

Brown said, however, "I'm not planning to use him unless someone unforeseen comes up when I can use him in a spot run." James' spot running accounted for two touchdowns against Illinois.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Judging by the noise in the Garden last night, Willie Pep must be the biggest thing that's happened to the state of Connecticut since the Danbury fair closed down . . . the out-of-town customers were a lot livelier than anything in the ring . . . at that, Pep proved that you don't have to be as old as Chalky Wright to know a lot of boxing tricks . . . by winning the featherweight title, Willie cleared the way for settlement of another of the disputed championships. . . . Manager Harry Burnkrant reports that Pittsburgh Jackie Wilson, the NBA boss, will be ready for action about December 15, which should be just in time to pull in another big crowd with Pep. There wasn't any crowd appeal in trying to settle a title dispute between Wright and Wilson . . . and as Chalky remarked about his 40 per cent of that $72,000 gate last night . . . "That's nice compensation."

TODAY'S GUEST STAR
Jerry Mitchell, New York Post: "That reformed character, Lippy Durocher, will now lead the congregation in singing, praise the Lord . . . and play only chess and checkers."

SHORTS AND SHELLS
The lightweight title tournament to determine a successor for Sammy Angott probably will start at the Garden, December 18, with Beau Jack vs. Tippy Larkin and Cleo Shans vs. Chester Rico . . . and the latest name mentioned for this affair is Chicago's Willie Joyce. . . . The hottest race since the Turf and Field Digest started its "Horse of the Year" poll is going on this year between Whirlaway and Alsab . . . probably will end in a photo finish.

LITTLE BUT POWERFUL
Marshall County, West Virginia (pop. 3,500), will have two boys on the College All-Stars basketball squad that plays the Oshkosh, Wisconsin, Pros at Chicago next week. Rudy Baric of Benwood and Roger (Shorty) Hicks of Moundsville, both chosen for the All-Stars, live eight miles apart, played on opposing high school teams, teamed together at West Virginia U. and now are co-coaches of the Mountaineer court squad since Coach Dyke Raese has gone into the Navy.

HELP, HELP
Not knowing the answers, we'll pass along these questions from Hank Wolfe of the Richmond (Va.) News Leader as received: (1) St. Christopher's school of Richmond has defeated Benedictine high in football 15 years in succession. Do you have a longer consecutive winning streak to offer? (2) Quarterback Ray Marshall of John Marshall high (a relative, hey?) ran 102 yards with an intercepted pass last week. Is or isn't it the longest jaunt of the season?

SERVICE DEPT.
Pvt. George "Gee" Mitchell of Camp Barclay, Texas, is about to enter an officers' training school and the boys who knew him when he was physical education instructor and coach of the crack boxing teams at Southwestern Louisiana institute figure he'll make out all right when he gets his commission . . . story they tell is that his physical education examinations always included two questions: "Who is the world's greatest boxing coach?" . . . And "Why am I?"

BOOST EAGLES AS FOE OF A GEORGIA TEAM

By DILLION GRAHAM

New York, Nov. 21—This corner casts an unsolicited vote for a bowl game between Boston College and one of the Georgia's.

Such a post-season duel would just about settle the national grid championship. Boston should trample both Holy Cross and Boston U. to finish its season unbeaten. And either Georgia U. or Georgia Tech—should also have a spotless record. Too bad they can't have a round robin and ring in unwhipped Tulsa.

Your correspondent hails from the mint julep country and is just as strong a Georgia rooter as the next one down around Athens, Jaw-ja. And he spent many a cold fall afternoon in Grant Field, Atlanta, cheering on Bill Alexander's Engineers. But—look out for cover folks, these Southerners take their football seriously—he thinks Boston College has the best college football team in the country, a team that might beat any of the pros except the Bears and possibly the Redskins.

That's why I hope the Georgia vs. Tech victor tackles BC in somebody's bowl. It will settle the issue that can't be settled in print. A Yankee boy who made his college football reputation down South, Carl Brumbaugh of the University of Florida, coaches the BC backfield. And his fine tutoring is largely responsible for the Eagles' success. Hunk Anderson of the Bears says that BC has adapted the "T" formation to a greater degree, and gets more out of it, than any other college team he's seen.

Denny Myers' Eagles are big and fast. Other teams may be as big and some may be as fast, but I doubt if there's another club as big and fast as these Bostonians. Working off this "T," they have split-second timing to hit their quick breaking holes right on the dot. And there's so much power and speed in their running attack that a ball carrier can seldom be stopped without a sizable gain.

Fordham wouldn't be ranked as one of the better teams this year but I would wager a few greenbacks that BC is the only team that could wallop the Rams by eight touchdowns. Furthermore, no one has kicked Georgetown around like BC did, 47-0. It's the only team that has whipped Jim Crowley's Navy Pre-Flighters.

As it turns out, Crowley's team is the only BC rival that can be tabbed an A-1 team. Perhaps it wasn't quite as tough a schedule as Georgia's which listed Alabama and Georgia Tech as top foes. Of the three, Tech has rambled along the rockiest road. The Engineers beat Notre Dame and Alabama, whipped a good Eastern team in Navy and walloped one of Carolina's best, Duke.

I somehow feel that Georgia has an edge over Tech as their battle approaches. Georgia was a stand-out team last year. Tech wasn't. Georgia has Sinkwich and Tech can't match him in all-round brilliance and versatility. Georgia should win. But I've got a hunch that Tech is going to spill the Bulldogs.

What are the other ranking teams of the country? This corner offers:

1. Boston College
2. Georgia
3. Georgia Tech
4. Michigan
5. Ohio State
6. Alabama
7. Minnesota
8. Tulsa
9. Notre Dame
10. Tennessee

That rating isn't on the basis of games won and lost, for, if that was the case, Minnesota, with three shellackings in its first eight games, wouldn't belong. Alabama has been beaten twice. So has Michigan and Notre Dame. But studying the schedules and the games that's 1 figure they stack up. And I don't think the final AP poll will differ very greatly.

Jurkovich's A Great Back —When He's Conscious

By SAM JACKSON

AP Writer

Berkeley, Calif., Nov. 21—It looks as if Jim Jurkovich, the "orchid man of football," is going to round out a real gridiron career and give the All-America pickers a puzzle.

Thier problem will be whether a great player should be ruled out, because of a tendency to pass out cold in the heat of conflict.

It may be a flying shoe to the head, an elbow to the jaw, or some mysterious jolt in scrimmage—but Jurkovich can't even remember—but the fact remains that the University of California's outstanding backfield star has frequently been carted away unconscious. "Orchid man" is just one of the nicknames given him but when he's conscious and clicking his fans prefer the term "Jolting Jim."

Not Listed On Roster

Jurkovich was considered so definitely through with football that he was not even listed in the Golden Bear's roster for 1942. But he appeared for practice equipped with a special guard for his vulnerable chin and an unquenchable desire to play football.

At this writing "Jurk" is still playing, and playing great. In his best game of the season—California's 20-7 victory over Oregon—his teammates were seen trying to get him to leave the field and the trainer went out several times to see if he was all right.

But not until the game was on ice did Jurkovich withdraw. He had gained 75 yards from scrimmage and set up 75 more by completing six out of nine passes. After the game, Coach John Warren of Oregon said, "We were beaten by Jim Jurkovich, that's all."

"Jurk" was a football and track man at the Fresno, California, high school, and the brilliant star of the freshman team in college.

Knocked Out Early
As a sophomore, he was knocked out in practice and knocked out toward the end of the season, but in between he played outstanding football. Interception of a forward pass for a goal-to-goal touchdown run against U.S.C. was his brightest exploit.

Just before the 1941 season, he married a California co-ed. Starting the season like a sure-fire All-American, he quickly was in the hospital again—this time going out cold when tackled returning a punt against Washington State.

Coach Stub Allison and Dr. James Harkness, the team physician, agreed that Jurkovich had better give up football for good.

But that was 1941 and this is 1942. With his senior year started and the likelihood of early military service in mind, Jurkovich convinced himself and his campus authorities that he should play. So far, and pending sudden news from the medical department, he seems to have been right.

KEEP OFF BRIDGES

Harrisburg, Nov. 21 (AP)—The State Defense Council warns motorists and pedestrians to avoid parking or stopping on bridges during air raid drills or attacks. Motorists are instructed to "drive off the bridge with reduced headlamp illumination" and at the first opportunity park along the curb. Pedestrians are to leave bridges by the nearest route and enter a shelter.

YANKEES TRAP JAPANESE IN BUNA DISTRICT

By DEAN SCHEDLER

Somewhere in New Guinea, Nov. 21 (AP)—Japanese forces trapped in a narrow coastal strip in the Buna-Gona district of New Guinea were reported fighting back desperately today as American and Australian ground troops moved in relentlessly to drive them into the sea or force their capitulation.

One United States force was within a mile of Buna and engaged heavy fighting and another was attempting to wrest a landing field on the outskirts of the village from the defending Japanese. This second unit reported that it had met heavy machine-gun fire within 500 yards of the field.

Japanese fighter planes entered the fighting near Buna yesterday and seven zeros strafed Allied troops already under attack from light artillery and mortars. Allied observers said the Buna area also had been reinforced with anti-aircraft guns.

Weather Grounds Planes

Bad weather prevented Allied air units from giving the ground troops the aerial support which they have had in the difficult advance over the Owen Stanley mountains.

One American force approaching Buna from the south along the coast was trying to overcome opposition at Cape Endaiadere, a few miles from the village. Heavy fighting was in progress at Soputa, about eight miles inland from the coast on the Kokoda-Buna trail.

The main body of the Japanese forces, however, has been driven into a triangular area bound by a six-mile coastal strip between Buna and Gona and irregular lines running inland from these hamlets to Soputa.

The bitter struggle of the Japanese in this area indicated to observers that they had no intention of surrendering and a battle of extermination seemed to be in progress.

She did, however, offer a correction. She said her service was not for the Methodist church but "for the Lord."

But from others we gathered some of the highlights of the activities of her Sunday School class.

The class started with two members. Now it has 39. They are all active. Some of her present members are grandchildren of her first members.

The class meets regularly every Sunday morning. Once each month it assembles at a member's home . . . on a few occasions it has met at the church for its monthly sessions. The class is the only one in the church to help meet running expenses of the church through the regular weekly envelope system.

In addition to this contribution each member of the class pays dues. Sometimes a special assessment is levied. It sponsors church suppers, food sales and other functions to raise funds. For many years it held an annual picnic but for the past three years the picnic has been postponed because of deaths.

From these varied functions the class raises a considerable sum of money which is either given outright to the church or spent on improvements, gifts or such for the church.

For instance the class presented to the church the following: A large silk Christian flag; a large painting of Christ; a velvet altar cloth, maroon colored with gold fringe; a silver service costing more than $100; four pulpit chairs costing more than $200 and many other gifts. It made substantial donations to redecorate the church and cash contributions on numerous other occasions.

One member of the church said: "We can always count on something from Mrs. Tate's class."

Mrs. Tate personally presented two large brass candlesticks for the church altar in memory of her daughter Mrs. Elizabeth Pauls.

Despite her seventy-nine years Mrs. Tate is unusually active. She enjoys good health and "I take care of myself," she proudly boasts.

She is proud of her Sunday School class, of every member, and what they are doing but her expression reflects the extreme happiness that is hers when she is reminded that the cross on the church altar bears an inscription of tribute to her faithful service.

The cross was presented by Dr. R. D. Wickerham and family.

LAVAL AGAIN CASTS HIS LOT WITH GERMANY

Vichy (from French Broadcasts) Nov. 21 (AP)—Pierre Laval advocated an alliance with Germany as Europe's sole hope for peace in a broadcast to the people of Nazi-occupied France last night and declared new volunteer legions would be raised to answer "the fresh insults which France has had to suffer from the Allied campaign in North Africa."

"We are again seeking reconciliation and an entente with Germany," Laval declared in his first address since he was given dictatorial powers and named as political heir to Marshal Petain.

He accused the United States and Britain of "tearing away bit by bit at the French empire because of their losses in the Pacific; said he was certain of a German victory.

"From what has happened in North Africa we have discovered the fate that waits us tomorrow if Roosevelt gets away with it," Laval said. "We would have to submit to a domination by communists and Jews."

The dark little collaborationist's talk of volunteer legions—such as the detachments which have fought alongside the Germans on the Russian front—suggested that Laval was not prepared at this time to thrust the nation into a formal state of war against the Allies.

In his 15-minute speech Laval assured his people again that Germany would not lose the war, declared he had tried to maintain peace with the United States and blamed President Roosevelt for bringing French and Americans to gunpoint after centuries of friendship.

ent program is completed.

The new feed building, which will be inspected next Tuesday, is two stories high and has a 68-foot cupola. The building proper measures 48 x 48 feet and has a wing 24 x 24 feet.

A foundation is being excavated for a fertilizer plant that will be ready for occupancy about next February 1. There also will be a building constructed for the storage of fertilizer.

An insecticide building also is contemplated and is expected to be finished February 1.

In the meantime, temporary quarters are meeting the needs of the corporation, with the exception of the feed manufacturing processes which were transferred to the new building since November 1.

Mr. Spangler reported today that sections of the debris from the fire in March still are smoking.

Since the formation of the partnership in 1900 and through the incorporation until the present time, Mr. Oyler and Mr. Spangler have divided the supervision of the business. The former has been responsible largely for contacting the farmers and the latter has taken care of the wholesale outlets for the firm.

Both men are members of the Gettysburg Rotary club and are active in other civic groups in the community. Mr. Oyler is serving as an associate judge of Adams county.

Cover 5 Counties

The business of the corporation today is scattered over five counties—Adams, York, Lancaster, Franklin and Cumberland—but Mr. Spangler recalled recently some of the experiences he had while conducting the business in its early years when it was serving this area principally.

One of the first places in the county to be visited by Mr. Spangler was Gardners. He recalled that it was his custom to drive his horse and buggy to Gardners, where he would replace his tired horse with a mule secured from Park Gardner, and then start visiting the farmers to take orders. When the feed and fertilizer were ready to be delivered to Gardners by train, Mr. Spangler would go along and distribute the orders to the farmers. This operation usually took two days, he recalled.

In addition to the corporation's business, Mr. Oyler and Mr. Spangler operate two farms adjoining the plant. One farm has 100 acres and the other has 150 acres.

Modern Equipment

Up-to-date equipment has been placed in the new feed building. Included are the following: Roughage cutter, two hammer mills, corn sheller, three elevators, two dry mixers, one molasses mixer, belt conveyor, corn cutter, grain cleaner and separator and dry molasses mixer.

Carl Oyler, son of Mr. Oyler, has been foreman of the corporation since 1918. His employment with the company started many years before that time. Charles B. Kuhns has been the firm's bookkeeper for the last ten years.

M. C. Morton, of Hagerstown, is president of the Central Chemical corporation of Pennsylvania (Oyler and Spangler) and vice president of the Central Chemical corporation of Maryland.

Civilian defense costs are now a major item in the budgets of most American cities.

Upper Communities

The annual banquet of the Ira E. Lady post of the American Legion and its Auxiliary will be held this evening in the basement of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Biglerville.

Mrs. Elaine G. Walter, Biglerville, and Mrs. Howard L. Moore, Gettysburg, were visitors in Carlisle Friday.

The Biglerville fire company was called out Friday afternoon by an accidental sounding of the siren at the C. H. Musselman plant.

"Youths' Call to Youth" will be the topic for discussion at the Sunday evening meeting of the Christian Endeavor society of the Biglerville United Brethren church. The meeting will be at 6:30 o'clock. Miss Mildred Price will be the leader.

The Merz evaporating plant will continue operations in Biglerville for another week.

Services Today For Mrs. M. H. Valentine

Funeral services for Mrs. M. H. Valentine, Springs avenue, who died Wednesday night, will be held from the Bender funeral home this afternoon at 2 o'clock conducted by the Rev. Dwight F. Putman and Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson. Private interment in Evergreen cemetery.

The pallbearers will be Prof. Clyde B. Stover, Dr. William K. Sundermyer, Dr. Richard Arms, Prof. W. F. Shafer, Dr. Frank H. Kramer and Prof. George F. Gutmann.

Truck Certificate Deadline Postponed

Farmers who have not yet obtained certificates of War Necessity for trucks under the ruling of the office of Defense Transportation requiring such certification have until December 1 to obtain them, it was announced here today by Harrison P. Snyder, chairman of the Adams county War Board.

The ODT has postponed the effective date for Certificates of War Necessity from November 15 to December 1 while the OPA has postponed the effective date of nationwide gasoline rationing to December 1.

The OPA regulations will permit the issuance of temporary gasoline rationations after December 1 to anyone who has applied for a Certificate of War Necessity but who has not received it. Farmers who have not yet made application to the ODT for a certificate of War Necessity are urged to get in touch with their county farm transportation committee immediately. The committee headquarters is located at the Farm Bureau building on North Washington street.

Students Present Play Second Time

Gettysburg high school players scored again Friday evening in their second presentation of the three-act comedy of current times, "The American Way." A large audience witnessed the production in the school auditorium by a cast that included eight changes from the group which gave the first presentation on Wednesday evening.

Friday evening's cast included: Betty Rosensteel, Luther Smith, Patty Geisley, Maud Schriver, Betty Robert, Fred Stoner, Cathlene Everly, Barbara Cline, William Roth, Philip Ridinger, Shirley Larkin and John Shoop.

An Evening Thought

A man is not little when he finds it difficult to cope with circumstances, but when circumstances overmaster him.—Goethe

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

INDIAN SUMMER

When the busy year is closing and the harvest tasks are done,
When the frosts of early morning show that winter's coming on,
When the last brave leaves have fallen, comes that extra touch sublime
As a sort of farewell gesture known as Indian summer time.

It's as though the good Lord planned it as a favor for us all,
That we might have something lovely through the winter to recall,
A little added rapture for our memories to hold
When the storms descend upon us and the winds are bitter cold.

Or again it seems that autumn still had something left to spare,
A few more bits of beauty which it wanted us to share;
A few more days of glory which it wanted us to know,
And had hastened back to give them before winter brings the snow.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

THAT LITTLE BIT WITHIN

That small spark of potentiality, which is hidden within every human being—somewhere—is that which either will control or destroy all that may now be visible. In time, of course. If we prepare for any eventually in life, we are sure to be able to face the unexpected one.

That little bit keeps growing. If you read Somerset Maugham's book "Moon and Sixpence," you will have an unusual character portrayed before your very eyes. It is supposed to be the fictional story of the famous artist Gauguin. Here was a man who left his home and family, without saying a word, and went to Paris, and later to Tahiti, to paint—because he had to paint. Nothing—absolutely nothing else—mattered. Friends, reputation, social standing—nothing meant anything to him, as measured against that driving power within him to paint.

So sensational was the departure of this man that no one could figure out the cause or the reason. Few knew that he ever had even any interest in art. But paint he would, and paint he did. That little bit, with which he was born, grew into an overmastering desire to do the things on which he had resolved. Today his paintings are collectors' items—that only the rich are able to afford!

Take the recent example of General Jimmie Doolittle. As a boy in school that little spark of curiosity for all things that had to do with machines—and especially anything that had to do with flying—absorbed his thought and energies. Probably no other flyer today has so many sensational and record-breaking exploits chalked up to him as this efficient dare-devil of the air. The little bit grew big!

It never pays to extinguish that spark, wherever it is supposed to be planted. A child's least tendency to something unusual should be encouraged. That little bit within may some day astonish the world! It has in many and many an example.

Warren Hastings, over whom so much controversy hinged in his troublesome career, was a poor boy, whose ancestors' estate had been swept from them. One day, at the age of but seven years he lay upon the bank of a stream of those lost domains—and dreamed. He resolved, he would in time return and gain all that had been lost. This idea remained with him until he did return, as an old man to take up and enjoy in peace what had never been his before.

That little bit, to some degree or other, is in you. Search it out. Then fan that little spark until it becomes a flame!

Democrats Escort G. O. P. Friends on Salt River Parade: These were clown faces, white faces and black faces. There were donkeys and horses, automobiles, trucks, make-shift motor cars, roosters, hens and turtles. There were high silk hats, felt hats, straw hats, brown derbies and collapsible clubs.

It was the 1932 "Salt river excursion" of the democrats of Adams county, celebrating the Roosevelt landslide in the recent general election and the democrats were taking their good friends, the republicans, "up salt river" for at least four years.

On a huge gaily decorated truck with the inscription "S. S. Hoover," the reigning democrats, Roy P. Funkhouser and James C. Cole and friends, led the procession.

G. R. Thompson, guest of honor, rode in the main float with his democratic friends.

C. W. Epley wheeled Johnny Sheads in a wheelbarrow to settle an election bet.

Brady Sefton, as a colored barber, shaved Erney Myers.

Captain Gilbert, Charley Tate and Howard Walter were "taken for a ride" by Charles B. Dougherty.

The Gettysburg Boy's band, Gettysburg Citizens' band, Paradise Protectorate Boys' band, the Arendtsville vocational school band, a colored orchestra and other musical organizations played martial selections.

Local Student Honored at G'burg College: Raymond F. Sheely, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Sheely, West Middle street, and a senior at Gettysburg college, and Herbert W. Schroeder, of Doyleville, New York, were elected to Phi Beta Kappa, at a meeting of Iota chapter of Pennsylvania, Wednesday afternoon in Glatfelter hall. Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh made the announcement.

Couple Weds Sunday: Miss Evelyn G. Kemper daughter of Mrs. Sadie Kemper, Straban township, and Raymond C. Herman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Herman, New Oxford, were married by the Rev. C. J. Groft, pastor of the York Springs Methodist Episcopal church at the parsonage on Sunday.

88 Persons at Sons of Vets' Banquet Here: Eighty-eight guests were present at the second annual banquet of the Past Commanders and Past Presidents' association of the Sons of Union Veterans, in the Hotel Gettysburg, Saturday night, commemorating the dedication of the Gettysburg National Cemetery, by Abraham Lincoln, November 19, 1863.

Staff Sergeant Edward F. Strausbaugh chairman of the committee on arrangements introduced the toastmaster, Captain C. F. Aument, of Lancaster.

Miss Beryl Fraley MacPherson gave the historical invitation, Major J. W. Wentzel, of Uniontown, recited Lincoln's Gettysburg address and the Rev. L. B. Hafer pronounced prayer. Captain J. A. Ruggles delivered the address of welcome.

Amy Johnson Beats Her Husband's Flight Record: Capetown, Union of South Africa, Nov 18 (AP)—Amy Johnson, flying alone from England, landed here at 1:30 p. m. Greenwich time today, clipping nearly 11 hours off the speed record held by her husband, J. C. A. Mollison.

Last March Captain Mollison made the trip in four days, 17 hours and 19 minutes.

His wife brought her small monoplane "Desert Cloud" down to a skillful landing to the accompaniment of shrieking motor horns and the cheers of 2,000 persons waiting to greet her.

40 Per Cent Of Butter Earmarked For Fighting Men

CONSUMPTION BY CIVILIANS IS DECREASED

By KENNETH L. DIXON

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—To keep Johnny Doughboy from being fed dry bread while fighting far away, the folks at home may soon have to spread their butter thin—or use some substitute.

Frozen in more ways than one, 40 per cent of the nation's cold-stored butter supply today was set aside for fighting men and the lease-lend program under terms of a War Production Board order.

And housewives started eyeing such table-fat substitutes as margarine and peanut butter, for the "temporary" wording of the order failed to ease the threat of eventual shortage. Agriculture department officials asserted that present butter production was not meeting market needs and pointed out that the WPB slice of nearly 35,000,000 pounds would be felt in the near future.

10 Per Cent Cut

However, WPB officials planned to supplant the freeze as quickly as possible with a limitation order which would cut consumption about 10 per cent—or two pounds per person a year.

They added that the shortage might not materially affect the retail market before January, and that rationing might not be necessary, although the board's food requirements committee—headed by Agriculture Secretary Wickard—reported that butter supplies have been reduced to the lowest levels since 1932.

Because of the shortage, attributed to seasonal production slumps and increasing civilian purchasing power, the Army and Navy have found it increasingly difficult to get sufficient supplies, WPB said. At a time when improvement in the shipping situation made it opportune to ship more butter to the men overseas, many vessels with space for it were forced to sail with other cargo.

"This situation requires prompt and drastic action," the board said.

Freeze Half of Supply

The order earmarked for government purchase half the butter in cold storage in the nation's 35 principal marketing centers, which hold about 80 per cent of the entire supply. It was retroactive to Nov. 6, ruling that deliveries made since then could not be subtracted in setting aside the federal portion and even existing contracts could not be considered.

It did not affect retail stocks on hand. Unless superseded, it will remain in effect until March 6.

The 35 principal marketing cities include: New York metropolitan area; Chicago; Philadelphia; Boston; Buffalo, N. Y.; Providence, R. I.; Syracuse, N. Y.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Detroit and Cleveland.

STATE TREASURER WEDS

Erie, Pa., Nov. 20 (AP)—State Treasurer G. Harold Wagner and his bride, the former Dorothy M. Singer of Harrisburg, were honeymooning today. Wagner and Miss Singer, who was his executive secretary, were married yesterday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. G. Shelley in nearby Northeast by the Rev. J. Fulton Kiskaddon, pastor of the Presbyterian church in Northeast. Mrs. Shelley is a cousin of the bride. A few friends attended the ceremony.

WHOA, MR. HENDERSON

New Castle, Ind. (AP)—In Sulphur Springs, near here, chickens sold for $50 each, five gallons of motor oil brought $50, milk was $32 a quart, coffee $40 a pound, and a 24-pound sack of flour cost $249.

But stand back, Mr. Henderson—the articles were donated to the Parent-Teachers' association and auctioned off to war bond purchasers, who paid $2,285.

GAME COMES TO HUNTER

Newport, Pa. (AP)—An automobile accident paralyzed Sportsman David Foose's legs, but not his love of hunting.

Sitting in a wheel chair on his back porch, a gun in his lap, Foose called for his dog. The dog turned up a rabbit, drove it within range, and Foose fired. And the Foses had rabbit for dinner.

LITERATE TERMITES

Berkeley, Calif. (AP)—E. J. Richardson, mailing superintendent of the University of California Press, wonders if termites can read.

Richardson had his mailing room remodeled and painted to get rid of the wood chawers. But a new crew of termites moved in. They passed up the newly painted wood and consumed part of a booklet.

The booklet's title: "The Control of Termites by the College of Agriculture."

OPEN SEASON

Chicago (AP)—With the pheasant hunting season ended, a checkup on results in Illinois brought this:

George Rowell of Batavia, captured an eagle he shot and wounded; Albert W. Zwiefel of Elgin bagged a red fox; Bob Cernocky of Fox River Grove brought down two snow geese; Dr. George Nesbitt of Sycamore caught four jack-rabbits and six rattlesnakes; a De Kalb motorist killed a buck deer with his automobile; and another hunter shot up the Browning rural school, smashing a window and damaging the blackboard.

MOVE DEADLINE FOR FUEL OIL

Philadelphia, Nov. 21 (AP)—The regional Office of Price Administration said today that fuel oil may be purchased without rationing coupons until December 1. The deadline originally fixed was November 23.

The extension was announced a few hours after it was made known that many rationing boards were far behind in issuing coupons.

Stocks of fuel oil were nearly exhausted in thousands of homes.

Meanwhile Philadelphia's city council ordered cold substituted for oil in two of the city's largest institutions, the home for the indigent and the house of correction.

Councilmen said a companion order to go out Monday will call for a 40 per cent reduction in all other municipally owned buildings—including hospitals—now heating with oil.

City officials estimated that the program would cut municipal consumption from 12,000,000 gallons yearly to 7,000,000 or less.

Read Confession At Murder Trial

Salem, N. J., Nov. 21 (AP)—A statement ending with the words, "I'll sign this if it sends me to the electric chair," was read yesterday at the trial of Ira Norris, 30-year-old door-to-door salesman, charged with murder in the death of Samuel H. Hagenberger, 38, a business rival. County Detective Albert Peacock testified that the statement was signed by Norris.

The document said Norris destroyed some of his business records because they showed the route he took on September 26, the day Hagenberger's body was found in a woods near Alloway.

It added that Norris overpowered Hagenberger during a fight over sales territory, then took his money, placed a belt around his neck and trussed him to a huckleberry bush.

HONOR WOMEN IN WAR

Harrisburg, Nov. 21 (AP)—Governor James urges special observances of Women in War Week from Nov. 22 to 28 to honor Pennsylvania women who he says are doing a "magnificent job in the furtherance of our total war effort." Women themselves will observe the week "by giving extra work with renewed activity in the sale of war saving bonds," he says.

Axis Egyptian Forces Are Fading Into Crimson Glow Of Hitler's Setting Sun

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Cairo, Nov. 21.—I find most gratifying the air of solid confidence in both British and American military headquarters on the Nile as the chase of the disorganized Axis forces continues westward across the Libyan desert into the crimson glow of Hitler's setting sun.

Now of course figures of speech are among the world's greatest liars and must be used with great reserve. So I hasten to add that it is with deliberation that I refer to the master gangster's sinking sun, for it most assuredly has passed its zenith, considering all aspects of the European war.

Difficult Task Ahead

Still, while confidence among our captains of the war is 100 per cent, there is not the slightest disposition to underestimate the magnitude of the task ahead of us. The Boche has plenty of fight left in him.

It is true that the only way we can lose is through Allied errors in judgment, but a major mistake might prove disastrous.

As regards the Libyan wing of the great Allied north African show, we are in the midst of the battle. Unless the Germans unexpectedly step entirely out of character there still is heavy fighting in the offing.

In assaying the position we must recognize that Rommel's sensational flight, which is being carried out with exceptional speed, is impelled by tactical necessity rather than fear.

Rommel Runs for Help

What Rommel is trying to do is to race his shattered and harassed forces westward until he can make a junction with Axis colleagues now bent on stemming the Allied drive against Tunis and Bizerte. Present indications are that Hitler has no intention of causing north Africa to be abandoned without another stand.

Air-power is becoming increasingly important as the battle swells to a climax with the Allies pressing the Axis from west and east.

Hitler's hopes must depend largely on the Luftwaffe and he is said to be rushing reinforcements into the battle.

To Blast Industries

The Allies, already superior in the air, are gaining strength as they advance into enemy territory. Already the Allied drive through Libya has resulted in the capture of some 120 landing fields and this naturally facilitates operations of the combined British and American forces which increasingly plaster Axis columns, bases and lines of communication.

At this crucial juncture, Lieut.

Gen Frank M. Andrews, famous air exponent, has arrived to take command of United States Army forces in the Middle East. He undoubtedly has stepped into the midst of a situation to his liking for he knows his air. It is my observation that he is swinging into action fast.

I had an interesting chat with the general a couple of nights ago and while one isn't privileged to quote him I came away with the impression that American experts are looking forward to the fascinating possibilities of bombing both Italy and German territory from north African airports as soon as the present drive is over.

The general, of course, has long been a believer in the efficacy of heavy bombardment of enemy war industries and transport systems.

I talked with many great military men in recent weeks on this subject and the almost unanimous view was that if we are to force Hitler to his knees next year—and that is held to be possible—the first requirement is that he be rendered impotent in western Europe and Germany by heavy bombing of his industrial centers and communications.

Only when this has been done will it be possible to stage a land invasion of France, without which the war may be protracted indefinitely.

GET OLD JOBS AT NEW SCALE

Harrisburg, Nov. 21 (AP)—When "Johnny" state employee comes marching home from war he'll most likely find a bigger commonwealth check waiting for him in his old job if he entered military service before the recent 15 per cent pay boosts.

That in effect, was a ruling made today by the board of review of the Justice department, which claims:

An employee's status remains the same as it was when he entered military service and dependents of those who went into the armed forces before the increases went into effect will not benefit from the salary hikes.

To Get New Scale

However, asserted William J. Rutter, deputy attorney general, those entitled to their state jobs after the war will return at the new rate of pay.

Dependents may draw half of an employee's salary up to $2,000 with certain deductions for higher pay received in the armed forces.

Governor James last month approved 15 per cent pay boosts for all state employees earning $3,000 or less a year.

There are 3,000 state employees in the armed forces but only 850 of them have approved dependents to which approximately $45,000 monthly is paid by the state.

GAME COMES TO HUNTER
Newport, Pa. (AP)—An automobile accident paralyzed Sportsman David Foose's legs, but not his love of hunting.

Sitting in a wheel chair on his back porch, a gun in his lap, Foose called for his dog. The dog turned up a rabbit, drove it within range, and Foose fired. And the Foosees had rabbit for dinner.

LITERATE TERMITES
Berkeley, Calif. (AP)—E. J. Richardson, mailing superintendent of the University of California Press, wonders if termites can read.

Richardson had his mailing room remodeled and painted to get rid of the wood chewers. But a new crew of termites moved in. They passed up the newly painted wood and consumed part of a booklet.

The booklet's title: "The Control of Termites by the College of Agriculture."

OPEN SEASON
Chicago (AP)—With the pheasant hunting season ended, a checkup on results in Illinois brought this: George Rowcliff of Batavia, captured an eagle he shot and wounded; Albert W. Zwickel of Elgin bagged a red fox; Bob Cernocky of Fox River Grove brought down two snow geese; Dr. George Nesbitt of Sycamore caught four jack-rabbits and six rattlesnakes; a De Kalb motorist killed a buck deer with his automobile; and another hunter shot up the Browning rural school, smashing a window and damaging the blackboard.

42,000 'TEENS WILL REGISTER DEC. 11TH WEEK

Harrisburg, Nov. 21 (AP)—State Selective Service headquarters today estimated that 42,000 Pennsylvanians 18 and 19 years old will register for Selective Service next month.

Col. B. F. Evans, acting state director, said youths who became 18 in July register the week of Dec. 11, those 18 in September or October register the week of Dec. 18, and those with 18th birthdays in November and December sign up the week of Dec. 26. They will be inducted by birthdays—the older youths first—instead of by order numbers.

Evans said a few of the 215,000 18 to 20½ youths registered last June may be inducted next month, adding that approximately 42,000 of that group will have been called for military service by the end of the year.

May Be Deferred
Any of the 18 and 19-year-olds in high schools may request deferment until the end of the school year in which they are called, asserted Colonel Evans. He explained that local boards have received a national directive explaining that "the intent is to include only courses of study of the usual high school level and not to include elementary or grammar school or university or college work."

The officials also declared local boards have been instructed to reopen the cases of all men classified 4F for moral reasons, adding only men completely unacceptable to the Army will be put in that classification in the future.

The Army, he said, will grant waivers to "meritorious cases" even though the registrant's criminal record includes convictions for such crimes as treason, murder, serious charge or kidnapping.

Read Confession At Murder Trial
Salem, N. J., Nov. 21 (AP)—A statement ending with the words, "I'll sign this if it sends me to the electric chair," was read yesterday at the trial of Ira Norris, 30-year-old door-to-door salesman, charged with murder in the death of Samuel H. Hagenberger, 38, a business rival. County Detective Albert Peacock testified that the statement was signed by Norris.

The document said Norris destroyed some of his business records because they showed the route he took on September 26, the day Hagenberger's body was found in a woods near Alloway.

It added that Norris overpowered Hagenberger during a fight over sales territory, then took his money, placed a belt around his neck and trussed him to a huckleberry bush.

HONOR WOMEN IN WAR
Harrisburg, Nov. 21 (AP)—Governor James urges special observances of Women in War Week from Nov. 22 to 28 to honor Pennsylvania women who he says are doing a "magnificent job in the furtherance of our total war effort." Women themselves will observe the week "by giving extra work with renewed activity in the sale of war saving bonds," he says.

Just Folks

INDIAN SUMMER
When the busy year is closing and the harvest tasks are done,
When the frosts of early morning show that winter's coming on,
When the last brave leaves have fallen, come that extra touch sublime
As a sort of farewell gesture known as Indian summer time.

It's as though the good Lord planned it as a favor for us all,
That we might have something lovely through the winter to recall,
A little added rapture for our memories to hold
When the storms descend upon us and the winds are bitter cold.

Or again it seems that autumn still had something left to spare,
A few more bits of beauty which it wanted us to share;
A few more days of glory which it wanted us to know,
And had hastened back to give them before winter brings the snow.

Today's Talk
By George Matthew Adams

THAT LITTLE BIT WITHIN
That small spark of potentiality, which is hidden within every human being—somewhere—is that which either will control or destroy all that may now be visible. In time, of course. If we prepare for any eventually in life, we are sure to be able to face the unexpected one.

That little bit keeps growing. If you read Somerset Maugham's book "Moon and Sixpence," you will have an unusual character portrayed before your very eyes. It is supposed to be the fictional story of the famous artist Gauguin. Here was a man who left his home and family, without saying a word, and went to Paris, and later to Tahiti, to paint—because he had to paint. Nothing—absolutely nothing else—mattered. Friends, reputation, social standing—nothing meant anything to him, as measured against that driving power within him to paint.

So sensational was the departure of this man that no one could figure out the cause or the reason. Few knew that he ever had even any interest in art. But paint he would, and paint he did. That little bit, with which he was born, grew into an overmastering desire to do the things on which he had resolved. Today his paintings are collectors' items—that only the rich are able to afford!

Take the recent example of General Jimmie Doolittle. As a boy in school that little spark of curiosity for all things that had to do with machines—and especially anything that had to do with flying—absorbed his thought and energies. Probably no other flyer today has so many sensational and record-breaking exploits chalked up to him as this efficient dare-devil of the air. The little bit grew big!

It never pays to extinguish that spark, wherever it is supposed to be planted. A child's least tendency to something unusual should be encouraged. That little bit within may some day astonish the world! It has in many and many an example. Warren Hastings, over whom so much controversy raged in his troublesome career, was a poor boy, whose ancestors' estate had been swept from them. One day, at the age of but seven years he lay upon the bank of a stream of those lost domains—and dreamed. He resolved, he would in time return and gain all that had been lost. This idea remained with him until he did return, as an old man to take up and enjoy in peace what had never been his before.

That little bit, to some degree or other, is in you. Search it out. Then fan that little spark until it becomes a flame!

MOVE DEADLINE FOR FUEL OIL

Philadelphia, Nov. 21 (AP)—The regional Office of Price Administration said today that fuel oil may be purchased without rationing coupons until December 1. The deadline originally fixed was November 23.

The extension was announced a few hours after it was made known that many rationing boards were far behind in issuing coupons.

Stocks of fuel oil were nearly exhausted in thousands of homes.

Meanwhile Philadelphia's city council ordered coal substituted for oil in two of the city's largest institutions, the home for the indigent and the house of correction.

Councilmen said a companion order to go out Monday will call for a 40 per cent reduction in all other municipally owned buildings—including hospitals—now heating with oil.

City officials estimated that the program would cut municipal consumption from 12,000,000 gallons yearly to 7,000,000 or less.

STATE TREASURER WEDS
Eric, Pa., Nov. 20 (AP)—State Treasurer G. Harold Wagner and his bride, the former Dorothy M. Singer of Harrisburg, were honeymooning today. Wagner and Miss Singer, who was his executive secretary, were married yesterday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. G. Shelley in nearby Northeast by the Rev. J. Fulton Kiskaddon, pastor of the Presbyterian church in Northeast. Mrs. Shelley is a cousin of the bride. A few friends attended the ceremony.

MARINES SET AFRICAN MARK 100 YEARS AGO

By HERMAN ALLEN
AP Features Writer

A handful of U. S. Marines hung up a record in North Africa more than 100 years ago that stands today as something for American troops in that vast desert land to shoot at.

Alexandria, Egypt . . . a stifling, sand-stormy day in March, 1805 . . .

A motley army set out westward across the burning desert towards Derna, Tripoli, 600 miles away . . . 36 Greeks, 90 Berbers, some 200 Arabian cavalry, foot soldiers and camel drivers—

And eight United States Marines.

Derna Expedition
It was the famous "Derna Expedition," one of the most notable feats of American arms.

The expedition was led by General William Eaton, former American consul at Tunis. At the head of the Marines was Lieut. Presley N. O'Bannon.

Back in 1793 national indignation had impelled the U. S. Congress to raise money to build six frigates, including the famous "Old Ironsides," to fight the pirates, but in the meantime an undeclared naval war had sprung up with France. The French, taking their cue from the British, had started impressing American seamen.

While we were fighting the French, we continued to pay the Bey of Algiers an annual tribute of $22,000 to permit our ships to pass his shores. The Bey of Tunis and the Bashaw of Tripoli knew a good thing when they saw it, so they demanded tribute, too. They pushed a good thing too far, however, and the result was a series of naval expeditions against them. It was in the 1803 expedition that the U. S. frigate Philadelphia was captured, only to be burned at her moorings by the gallant Lieut. Stephen Decatur and his raiders.

Yusuf, the Bashaw of Tripoli, was a scurrilous character, who had seized the throne by murdering his oldest brother. His next oldest brother, Hamet, in line for the throne, fled to Egypt.

Eaton conceived the idea of finding Hamet and placing him on the throne at Tripoli.

Hamet agreed to Eaton's idea, and the expedition set out. Several times the Arabs threatened mutiny but they were outwitted by O'Bannon's Leathernecks. Arriving before Derna April 25, Eaton found the town defended by 800 men against his 350. While three U. S. naval ships bombarded the fort from the sea, Eaton sent two forces against it from the land. The first consisted of O'Bannon and the Marines, 36 Greeks and 24 Berber artillerymen with one cannon. The second, under Hamet, was an all Arab team.

Both assaults failed. Eaton knew enemy reinforcements were approaching, so he ordered another attack. O'Bannon, leading all the men that remained, stormed the fort again, took it and raised the Stars and Stripes for the first time in the old world.

The Tripolitan reinforcements arrived May 8, but O'Bannon stood them off until June, when he was informed that peace had been signed and he was ordered to evacuate the town.

To this day, Marine officers carry a kind of blade known as the "Mameluke sword" in dress uniform as a souvenir of a fighting chapter in their history of daring.

William Fox At Lewisburg Prison

Lewisburg, Pa., Nov. 21 (AP)—William Fox, former millionaire movie producer, settled down to the routine of federal prison life today after having been transferred to the Lewisburg penitentiary from Moyamensing prison in Philadelphia.

Shackled to two other convicts, Fox made the trip yesterday, five days after he surrendered to federal authorities. Federal Judge Guy K. Bard rejected his plea for another delay in the service of his year-and-a-day sentence.

The pioneer motion picture executive was convicted last year of conspiracy to defraud the government during his bankruptcy proceedings.

YANKEE GIRL HOPES TO JOIN CHETNIKS AGAIN

BY WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—Ruth Mitchell, the only foreign woman ever admitted to membership in the Chetniks, Serbian guerrilla organization now harassing the Axis in the forests and mountains of Yugoslavia, began a campaign today to keep the fight going.

At her home in nearby Arlington, Va., the sister of the late Brig. Gen. William (Billy) Mitchell, displayed a letter from a high Chetnik officer appealing for help and describing conditions in Yugoslavia. The letter was forwarded to her from Slobodan Yuvanovich, premier of the Yugoslavian Government in Exile in London.

Using a vicious-looking Chetnik dagger as a pointer, she singled out paragraphs to show how the Chetniks, under Gen. Draza Mihailovich, were "keeping their foot in the door that leads from southern Europe into Germany."

"They will never quit," she asserted. "They are suffering indescribable hardships and need help. I am going to try to get that help for them, and then I am hoping to be able to return and fight with them."

50,000 Orphans
Whatever financial aid is obtained, she exclaimed, will be dropped to the guerrillas by parachute and will be used by them to obtain supplies through "Black Markets" in the semi-conquered country.

Miss Mitchell estimated that about one-third of the 6,500,000 Serbs in Yugoslavia have been killed in terrorist campaigns and said "At least 50,000 Serbian orphans must be cared for."

Miss Mitchell, who hopes to raise funds through her writings and lectures, went to Albania in April, 1938, for what she planned as a ten-day visit. She was expelled when the Italians, who had conquered Albania, thought she was a spy. In Belgrade she met Chetnik leaders and became a member.

When the Germans occupied Yugoslavia, she fled to Dubrovnik, where the Gestapo arrested her.

"I was to have been executed," she said, "but being an American citizen, and the United States not being in the war at that time, I was not shot." She was repatriated last July.

Decorate Yank Fliers Who Sank Jap Cruiser And Destroyer Off Buna

By DEAN SCHEDLER

Somewhere in New Guinea, Nov. 20 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. George C. Kenney, commander of Allied Air Forces in the southwest Pacific, personally awarded medals today to the fliers responsible for the sinking of a Japanese cruiser and destroyer off Buna and told them the battle may prove to have been the turning point of the war in this area.

With officers and men of the bombing missions standing around him in front of the mess hall, General Kenney pinned the Distinguished Service Cross on the squadron commander, Major William Benn of Washington, Pa.

The battle off Buna Bay in which the Japanese also lost three fighter planes got underway Wednesday night when Flying Fortresses penetrated cloud cover, sank the cruiser and destroyer and damaged a second destroyer.

The crews watched their bombs hit within 100 feet of the ships and then turned homeward in a rainstorm only to be intercepted by seven Zero fighters, probably from the Lae airbase about 150 miles to the north-west.

Down 3 Planes
The two pilots, Lieut. Clyde Holsey, Altus, Okla., and Lieut. Bill Memrichouse, Danville, Ill., said that three Japanese planes were shot down in the 25-minute running battle.

Crew members said they thought one of the tailgunners, Sgt. Amiel Vokoun, Ravenna, Neb., nailed one and the other hits were credited to the two navigators who manned guns during the engagement.

Lieut. Dave Crockett of Stevens, Ark., the navigator on Holsey's ship, had only seven shells left and the other guns on that plane were fired out when the bomber slid into a cloud cover and shook off two Zeros.

Memrichouse's navigator, Lieut. Jake Franz, Charleston, W. Va., said his tracer apparently hit one Zero behind the cowl and she went down with smoke pouring from her engine.

Determined Yanks

Allied reconnaissance planes had shadowed small units of the Japanese Navy shuttling back and forth near the coastline Wednesday afternoon but when attack planes reached the area they found only huge storms spreading for hundreds of miles.

After the two B-17's had returned from their raid, more Flying Fortresses set out in pouring rain determined this time to get their regardless of rain or Zeros, although pilots Holsey and Memrichouse warned the fliers that the weather was closing down to water level rapidly.

Flying low, Lieut. Lewis Anderson of Newark, New Jersey, headed for the light cruiser moving about four miles offshore.

"My bombardier, Sgt. Milton Kelley of Philadelphia, wasn't going to drop his bombs until he had the plane just where he wanted it—that's why we made about a dozen runs lining up the target," Anderson said.

Direct Smash
"Kelley didn't miss, either. His 500-pounders hit the cruiser smack amidships."

Tail-Gunner Sgt. Richard Keeley of Louisville, Kentucky, said the blast lifted the plane 100 feet upwards so violently he thought some of the ship's debris had hit it.

Anderson said he flew over the area a long time to make sure of a clean job. He saw a series of at least eight heavy explosions, he said, then the ship disappeared into the stormy water.

This occurred early Thursday. A mile closer inshore, meanwhile, Lieut. Bill O'Brien of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, was concentrating on a destroyer which was trying to outmaneuver him under full steam.

Bombardier Lieut. Walter J. Binus of Montfort, Wisconsin, said that he laid his first bomb 20 feet ahead but that his next dropped amidships and his third about 20 feet astern.

One Big Explosion
Crewmen said the destroyer was just one huge explosion and disappeared into the darkness.

O'Brien's run also was made from low level and his plane, was flung upward by the blast. Sgt. Fred Christmas of Rutland, Vermont, said the tail and elevator surfaces had fragment holes from flying debris.

The remaining destroyer was last seen slipping away to the north.

Major Benn's award was for his efforts over Rabaul Oct. 25 and Nov. 11.

Needing sleep after two nights work, he blushed as he shook hands with Gen. Kenney and murmured his thanks.

Silver stars were presented to Lieut. Anderson and his crew who had completed their 16th successful mission with the sinking of the cruiser off Buna. The crew is credited with shooting down "two and a half" Zeros, and with the definite destruction of three ships and probable destruction of five others.

The crew includes Engineer Sergeant Albert Nies, of Johnstown, Pa.

A story of violence and high adventure, "Manila Calling," the 20th Century-Fox film opening Monday at the Majestic theatre, is geared for action and suspense. And it should provide both in abundance, judging from the nature of the tale it tells.

A lost battalion is the hero of this picture—a lost battalion of fierce fighting men stranded in a jungle clearing by the withdrawal from the Philippines of American armed forces and seeking at the Japs whenever the opportunity arises.

"Manila Calling" is the first film glorifying the missing handful who became America's guerrilla fighters.

Lloyd Nolan and Carole Landis head the cast.

TUESDAY
When "Tombstone"—the Town Too Tough to Die, the Paramount Western adventure film, comes Tuesday to the Majestic theatre, moviegoers will see in action one of the boldest outlaws that ever packed a gun in the old Southwest.

The desperado, "Curly" Bill is portrayed by one of Hollywood's best character actors, Edgar Buchanan, who stars in the new film with Richard Dix and Kent Taylor. Dix himself plays the part of Wyatt Earp at the time he was engaged in blasting the outlaw gangs out of the Southwest.

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY
The ingenuity, resourcefulness and bravery with which American Marines met the attacks of Jap forces by land, sea and air, is reenacted with compelling realism in "Wake Island," Paramount's film dramatization of the Leatherneck's inspiring stand against the enemy for fourteen days.

The clever ruses used to outwit the Japs and stave off invasion for two weeks form part of the story told in "Wake Island," which opens Wednesday at the Majestic theatre, with Brian Donlevy, Robert Preston, Macdonald Carey, Albert Dekker, Walter Abel, Barbara Britton and William Bendix in leading roles.

Columbia's "My Sister Eileen," based upon the uproarious stage success which has panicked the Broadway of the nation for two solid years, is said to set a standard for laughter the like of which filmdom has never known before.

MURDER on the Campus

by JERRY BRONDFIELD

Chapter 29

THE UNBELIEVABLE HAPPENS

Susan went out to dinner Sunday night with Grace and Howard Martin. Grace had been one of her closest friends before she graduated last June, and had gotten married shortly afterwards.

"Well, how do you like him?" Grace said, nodding toward her husband.

Susan laughed out loud. "What do you expect me to do—tell you that you picked a lemon or that you found him in a rummage sale? Howard looks sweet enough and if he doesn't beat you I'll pass muster on him."

Martin grinned. "Thanks. From what Grace said, I wasn't to get an official okay until she'd heard from you."

"You're an engineer, aren't you?" Susan said.

Martin nodded. "We specialize in excavating work. You know—boom, boom, boom and the big shovels."

"It's such a pleasant thought," Grace put in. "To know that some day you might expect to have your husband come home in scattered pieces, with someone telling you the dynamite went off too soon, m'am! Wonderful thought, isn't it?"

"Depends on the insurance he leaves," Susan said dryly. "Dynamite isn't so bad," Martin says. "It's the TNT we have to be careful with."

"Howard once brought home a little bit of the stuff and kept it in the garage overnight for a quick getaway in the morning. I didn't sleep a wink," Grace said.

Susan laughed. She remembered what the housekeeper at Phil Humphries' apartment had told her about Phil scaring her with a small glass phial of some sort of powerful explosive. Susan wondered what it might have been.

Suddenly an idea hit her. It was just the germ of an idea, really, but it grew on her uneasily. Before dinner was over she could hardly wait until tomorrow came. Somehow Susan thought she might have a clue to Phil Humphries' murder.

Strange Confession

Susan knocked on Dr. Stephen Coulter's office door. Dr. Coulter opened it. "Come in, my dear," he smiled. "I got your message." He held a chair for her. "What is so urgent, now?"

"Dr. Coulter," Susan began earnestly. "Some time ago the police found out that Mr. Humphries might have been working on some sort of chemical invention before he was killed. If he was, it might possibly be a clue. Dr. Coulter, do you know whether Phil had been working on some sort of powerful explosive?"

Dr. Coulter's head cocked with interest. "Invention? Explosive?"

He shook his head. "No. No, of course not. Not to my knowledge at any rate. You must be on the wrong track my dear. I certainly would have known."

"Well," sighed Susan. "It was just an idea I had."

Susan got a phone call from the university hospital that night. She was to go there immediately and report to a Dr. Louis. Susan, a little apprehensive, was still wondering why she was being summoned to the hospital, of all places, when she was shown into Dr. Louis' office.

"Miss Drake," Dr. Louis said. "You were sent for by Dr. Stephen Coulter, the head of the university chemistry department."

He is suffering from a heart attack and although he is in no imminent danger he expressed an urgent desire to see you." Dr. Louis looked at his watch. "He also sent for a detective named Lake."

Susan jumped. She met Lake outside Dr. Coulter's room. "What's up?" she asked, and got a shrug for an answer.

"Good evening, Dr. Coulter. I'm sorry you're not well," Susan said, sitting down. Lake sat down next to her. Dr. Coulter looked at one, then the other.

"Thank you, my dear, but my health is of no great importance. I brought you people here to tell you that it was I who killed Philip Humphries."

The Mallet

Susan froze to her chair, petrified by the suddenness of his statement. She could only stare in disbelief at his wan, slightly smiling face.

Detective Sergeant Lake sucked in his breath. "You killed—you say you killed Philip Humphries?" he blurted out finally.

Dr. Coulter nodded. "Yes, it was I, and I also realize that anything I say may be used against me. But that is quite all right. This is a confession, officer. Let me tell you the entire story."

"My doctors tell me I cannot live more than six months. It's my heart. I have known this for some time. No one else knew it, though."

"Philip Humphries was my pride. I had taught him, trained him, given him his first position on my staff. He was brilliant and I had fine ideas for him. I thought he would continue along the path I had set for him."

"I wanted him to do big things in chemistry, not for personal glory or wealth but for the good he could do the human race."

"I found out too late that Humphries' mind had taken off on a tangent that revolted me. Secretly he had been working on a powerful explosive, a force more powerful than most of the explosives known to man today."

"I abhor war and the violence that man imposes upon himself. I had wanted Humphries to pursue his talents to peaceful ends. "When I discovered his secret, it was with almost fiendish glee he told me of the sickening destructiveness of his explosive. That was Philip Humphries' goal in chemistry—destruction, not creation. It was too much for me."

"I came upon him quite by accident the night he had completed his formula. Up until then I had known nothing. He couldn't help

PARATROOPS FAVORED TO KEEP PEACE

Headquarters British Airborne

Troops Somewhere In Britain Nov. 21 (AP)—A handsome, youthful general with a remarkable military record is forging one of the allies' instruments of victory. He is Major General Frederick Arthur Montague Browning, D. S. O., 45, a veteran of the first World War and commander of the British airborne forces.

He generally is ranked among the most brilliant of the allied leaders. Husband of Daphne du Maurier, the novelist, he is tall, slender mustached, considered the best-dressed officer in the army.

Believes In His Job

General Browning believes passionately in the mission of airborne troops.

"In all probability," he said, "the world will be policed after the war by means of airborne troops."

"I do not think that international order will be kept by bombings nor by threats of bombing, but by determined warnings—or actual landings if necessary—that airborne gloating over it. He was sick of working for coffee and cakes as he put it. He was going to make a fortune, now. He was sick of hearing me preach about the good I wanted him to do. He laughed in my face and I slapped him."

Dr. Coulter paused, slightly out of breath. Susan continued to stare, her lips parted. Lake's mouth was set in a straight line.

"Humphries struck me back, knocked me against a work bench. One of the maintenance men must have left a heavy wooden mallet there because I had never seen it in the laboratory before. I swung with all my might. I must have killed Humphries instantly. My mind was still in a fog. I took the mallet with me and went home."

"Why didn't you confess before?" Lake said.

"I'm coming to that," Dr. Coulter said.

troops would be sent into troubled regions to keep peace."

He predicts that after this war there may be no more armies as the world now knows them, that land armies as such are moving toward obsolescence.

Thus the soldier of tomorrow would be a kind of super-marine, employable either in the air or on the sea.

"The airborne forces," Browning says, "doubtless will carry more and more tanks, and artillery as well."

Sandhurst Graduate

General Browning came out of Eton and Sandhurst, the British counterpart of West Point, to join the Genadier Guards in the first year of the last war. He was in action on the western front before he was 19 years old, and by the time he was 21 he had won the D. S. O. and the Croix de Guerre.

When this war broke out he was commandant of the Small Arms School.

Advanced to a major-generalship in November, 1941, he soon was given command of the nation's airborne forces.

Adept in this highly specialized training and never hesitant about getting into battle-dress himself, the general represents the kind of leadership which appeals imaginatively to keen and daring men. He has been an exceptional athlete; that appeals to his soldiers.

Nearly 20 years ago he won the English high hurdles title of the A. A. A. In the same period he distinguished himself in winter sports; he was member of a boated crew at the Olympic games.

A man or woman entering military service must turn in his war ration book to his local War Price and Rationing board, the Office of Price Administration emphasized today.

Failure to observe this requirement may cause improper distribution of rationed commodities.

Military and naval personnel on furlough for at least seven days may receive sugar purchase certificates for one-half pound of sugar for each week of furlough. This ruling now places service men on furlough on the same basis as civilians.

MARINES SET AFRICAN MARK 100 YEARS AGO

By HERMAN ALLEN
AP Features Writer

A handful of U. S. Marines hung up a record in North Africa more than 100 years ago that stands today as something for American troops in that vast desert land to shoot at.

Alexandria, Egypt . . . a stifling, sand-stormy day in March, 1805 . . . a moving army set out westward across the burning desert towards Derna, Tripoli, 600 miles away . . . 38 Greeks, 90 Berbers, some 200 Arabian cavalry, foot soldiers and camel drivers—

And eight United States Marines.

Derna Expedition

It was the famous "Derna Expedition," one of the most notable feats of American arms.

The expedition was led by General William Eaton, former American consul at Tunis. At the head of the Marines was Lieut. Presley N. O'Bannon.

Back in 1793 national indignation had impelled the U. S. Congress to raise money to build six frigates, including the famous "Old Ironsides," to fight the pirates, but in the meantime an undeclared naval war had sprung up with France.

The French, taking their cue from the British, had started impressing American seamen.

While we were fighting the French, we continued to pay the Bey of Algiers an annual tribute of $22,000 to permit our ships to pass his shores. The Bey of Tunis and the Bashaw of Tripoli knew a good thing when they saw it, so they demanded tribute, too. They pushed a good thing too far, however, and the result was a series of naval expeditions against them. It was in the 1803 expedition that the U. S. frigate Philadelphia was captured, only to be burned at her moorings by the gallant Lieut. Stephen Decatur and his raiders.

Yusuf, the Bashaw of Tripoli, was a scurrilous character, who had seized the throne by murdering his oldest brother. His next oldest brother, Hamet, in line for the throne, fled to Egypt.

Eaton conceived the idea of finding Hamet and placing him on the throne at Tripoli.

Hamet agreed to Eaton's idea, and the expedition set out. Several times the Arabs threatened O'Bannon but they were outwitted by O'Bannon's Leathernecks. Arriving before Derna April 23, Eaton found the town defended by 800 men against his 350. While three U. S. naval ships bombarded the fort from the sea, Eaton sent two forces against it from the land. The first consisted of O'Bannon and the Marines, 35 Greeks and 24 Berber artillerymen with one cannon. The second, under Hamet, was an all Arab team.

Both assaults failed. Eaton knew enemy reinforcements were approaching, so he ordered another attack. O'Bannon, leading all the men that remained, stormed the fort again, took it and raised the Stars and Stripes for the first time in the world.

The Tripolitan reinforcements arrived May 8, but O'Bannon stood them off until June, when he was informed that peace had been signed and he was ordered to evacuate the town.

To this day, Marine officers carry a kind of blade known as the "Mameluke sword" in dress uniform as a souvenir of a fighting chapter in their history of daring.

William Fox At Lewisburg Prison

Lewisburg, Pa., Nov. 21 (AP)—William Fox, former millionaire movie producer, settled down to the routine of federal prison life today after having been transferred to the Lewisburg penitentiary from Moyamensing prison in Philadelphia.

Shackled to two other convicts, Fox made the trip yesterday, five days after he surrendered to federal authorities. Federal Judge Guy K. Bard rejected his plea for another delay in the service of his year-and-a-day sentence.

The pioneer motion picture executive was convicted last year of conspiracy to defraud the government during his bankruptcy proceedings.

YANKEE GIRL HOPES TO JOIN CHETNIKS AGAIN

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—Ruth Mitchell, the only foreign woman ever admitted to membership in the Chetniks, Serbian guerrilla organization now harassing the Axis in the forests and mountains of Yugoslavia, began a campaign today to keep the fight going.

At her home in nearby Arlington, Va., the sister of the late Brig. Gen. William (Billy) Mitchell, displayed a letter from a high Chetnik officer appealing for help and describing conditions in Yugoslavia. The letter was forwarded to her from Slobodan Yuranovich, premier of the Yugoslavian Government in Exile in London.

Using a vicious-looking Chetnik dagger as a pointer, she singled out paragraphs to show how the Chetniks, under Gen. Draza Mihailovich, were "keeping their foot in the door that leads from southern Europe into Germany."

"They will never quit," she asserted. "They are suffering indescribable hardships and need help. I am going to try to get that help for them, and then I am hoping to be able to return and fight with them."

50,000 Orphans

Whatever financial aid is obtained, she exclaimed, will be dropped to the guerrillas by parachute and will be used by them to obtain supplies through "Black Markets" in the semi-conquered country.

Miss Mitchell estimated that about one-third of the 5,500,000 Serbs in Yugoslavia have been killed in terrorist campaigns and said, "At least 50,000 Serbian orphans must be cared for."

Miss Mitchell, who hopes to raise funds through her writings and lectures, went to Albania in April, 1938, for what she planned as a ten-day visit. She was expelled when the Italians, who had conquered Albania, thought she was a spy. In Belgrade she met Chetnik leaders and became a member.

When the Germans occupied Yugoslavia, she fled to Dubrovnik, where the Gestapo arrested her. "I was to have been executed," she said, "but being an American citizen, and the United States not being in the war at that time, I was not shot." She was repatriated last July.

Decorate Yank Fliers Who Sank Jap Cruiser And Destroyer Off Buna

By DEAN SCHEDLER

Somehow in New Guinea, Nov. 20 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. George C. Kenney, commander of Allied Air Forces in the southwest Pacific, personally awarded medals today to the fliers responsible for the sinking of a Japanese cruiser and destroyer off Buna and told them the battle may prove to have been the turning point of the war in this area.

With officers and men of the bombing missions standing around him in front of the mess hall, General Kenney pinned the Distinguished Service Cross on the squadron commander, Major William Benn of Washington, Pa.

The battle off Buna Bay in which the Japanese also lost three fighter planes got underway Wednesday night when Flying Fortresses penetrated cloud cover, sank the cruiser and destroyer and damaged a second destroyer.

The crews watched their bombs hit within 100 feet of the ships and then turned homeward in a rainstorm only to be intercepted by seven Zero fighters, probably from the Lae airbase about 150 miles to the northwest.

Down 3 Planes

The two pilots, Lieut. Clyde Holsey, Altus, Okla., and Lieut. Bill Memrichouse, Danville, Ill., said that three Japanese planes were shot down in the 25-minute running battle.

Crew members said they thought one of the tailgunners, Sgt. Amiel Vokoun, Ravenna, Neb., nailed one and the other hits were credited to the two navigators who manned guns during the engagement.

Lieut. Dave Crockett of Stevens, Ark., the navigator on Holsey's ship, had only seven shells left and the other guns on that plane were fired out when the bomber slid into a cloud cover and shook off two Zeros.

Memrichouse's navigator, Lieut. Jake Franz, Charleston, W. Va., said his tracers apparently hit one Zero behind the cowl and she went down with smoke pouring from her engine.

Determined Yanks

Allied reconnaissance planes had shadowed small units of the Japanese Navy shuttling back and forth near the coastline Wednesday afternoon but when attack planes reached the area they found only huge storms spreading for hundreds of miles.

After the two B-17's had returned from their raid, more Flying Fortresses set out in pouring rain determined this time to get hits regardless of rain or Zeros, although pilots Holsey and Memrichouse warned the fliers that the weather was closing down to water level rapidly.

Flying low, Lieut. Lewis Anderson of Newark, New Jersey, headed for the light cruiser moving about four miles offshore.

"My bombardier, Sgt. Milton Kelley of Philadelphia, wasn't going to drop his bombs until he had the plane just where he wanted it—that's why we made about a dozen runs lining up the target," Anderson said.

Direct Smash

"Kelley didn't miss, either. His 300-pounders hit the cruiser smack amidships."

Tail-Gunner Sgt. Richard Keeley of Louisville, Kentucky, said the blast lifted the plane 100 feet upwards so violently he thought some of the ship's debris had hit it.

Anderson said he flew over the area a long time to make sure of a clean job. He saw a series of at least eight heavy explosions, he said, then the ship disappeared into the stormy water.

This occurred early Thursday. A mile closer inshore, meanwhile, Lieut. Bill O'Brien of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, was concentrating on a destroyer which was trying to outmaneuver him under full steam.

Bombardier Lieut. Walter J. Binus of Montfort, Wisconsin, said that he laid his first bomb 20 feet ahead but that his next dropped amidships and his third about 20 feet astern.

One Big Explosion

Crewmen said the destroyer was just one huge explosion and disappeared into the darkness.

O'Brien's run also was made from low level and his plane, was flung upward by the blast. Sgt. Fred Christmas of Rutland, Vermont, said the tail and elevator surfaces had fragment holes from flying debris.

The remaining destroyer was last seen slipping away to the north. Major Benn's award was for his efforts over Rabaul Oct. 25 and Nov. 11.

Needing sleep after two nights work, he blushed as he shook hands with Gen. Kenney and murmured his thanks.

Silver stars were presented to Lieut. Anderson and his crew who had completed their 16th successful mission with the sinking of the cruiser off Buna. The crew is credited with shooting down "two and a half" zeros, and with the definite destruction of three ships and probable destruction of five others.

The crew includes Engineer Sergeant Albert Nies, of Johnstown, Pa.

MONDAY

A story of violence and high adventure, "Manila Calling," the 20th Century-Fox film opening Monday at the Majestic theatre, is geared for action and suspense. And it should provide both in abundance, judging from the nature of the tale it tells.

A lost battalion is the hero of this picture—a lost battalion of fierce fighting men stranded in a jungle clearing by the withdrawal from the Philippines of American armed forces and seeking at the Japs whenever the opportunity arises. "Manila Calling" is the first film glorifying the missing handful who became America's guerrilla fighters.

Lloyd Nolan and Carole Landis head the cast.

TUESDAY

When "Tombstone—the Town Too Tough to Die," the Paramount Western adventure film, comes Tuesday to the Majestic theatre, moviegoers will see in action one of the boldest outlaws that ever packed a gun in the old Southwest.

The desperado, "Curly" Bill is portrayed by one of Hollywood's best character actors, Edgar Buchanan, who stars in the new film with Richard Dix and Kent Taylor. Dix himself plays the part of Wyatt Earp at the time he was engaged in blasting the outlaw gangs out of the Southwest.

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY

The ingenuity, resourcefulness and bravery with which American Marines met the attacks of Jap forces by land, sea and air, is reenacted with compelling realism in "Wake Island" Paramount's film dramatization of the Leathernecks' inspiring stand against the enemy for fourteen days.

The clever ruses used to outwit the Japs and stave off invasion for two weeks form part of the story told in "Wake Island," which opens Wednesday at the Majestic theatre, with Brian Donlevy, Robert Preston, MacDonald Carey, Albert Dekker, Walter Abel, Barbara Britton and William Bendix in leading roles.

Columbia's "My Sister Eileen," based upon the uproarious stage success which has panicked the Broadway of the nation for two solid years, is said to set a standard for laughter the like of which filmdom has never known before.

Italian City Of Turin Is Blasted

London, Nov. 21 (AP)—The arsenal city of Turin was attacked last night by RAF bombers in a raid which an authoritative British source termed the "heaviest yet made on Italy."

Of the scores of Stirlings, Hurricanes, Lancasters and Wellingtons assigned to the mission, three failed to return.

It was the fourth raid on Italy in eight nights, and the tenth, including one by day, since the latest and heaviest bomb offensive was set off October 22 with a grand scale lambasting of Genoa, key supply port for Axis forces in North Africa.

Other raids in this series have been on Genoa, Milan, Savona and Turin, the most recent previous one having been on the latter city Wednesday night.

Riding with Russell

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. by FREDERICK C. RUSSELL, Member S. A. E.

Usually when a motorist is down on a new regulation he can be suspected of not being up on it.

Too Slow For Economy

One of the things to avoid in the present flood of advice on the proper care of cars during wartime is the idea that the slower you drive the higher will be the car's efficiency. Actually it has been found by test that you can waste gas driving too slowly.

An aviation firm discovered that the best speed is somewhere around 30 miles per hour. In testing the plan of cutting out half the cylinders the average speed was slightly over 31 miles per hour. Up to a certain point the car is inclined to drag, especially on upgrades. You will want to get above this drag and give the car the benefit of momentum. Find the best rolling speed and stay with it, provided it does not exceed the 35 miles-an-hour law limit.

Let Them Warm Up

I am beginning to get reactions from my request for comments on car keeping from those who have achieved the distinction of driving their present cars 75,000 miles or more. And the most interesting comment thus far is emphasis placed on giving the engine a chance to warm up before using. These highly successful owners never start out with the car until the engine is ready. Check over your own experience and you'll likely admit that you have not considered such "babbling" of the engine necessary.

Some years ago I drove a car which featured what was known as an anticuff valve. This provided means of injection oil into the cylinders whenever using the starter. Due to the extra oiling there was little likelihood of pistons scuffing against dry cylinder walls. The idea was among many other excellent ones that have gone into the discard. Our only practical alternative is to follow the example of those who are proving that a few simple, sensible rules are the shortest cut to real mileage.

Keep It In Mind

Here's a little idea that will save loss of anti-freeze: Never add water to the radiator, or anti-freeze until the solution already in the system is warmed up. Where there is an elbow filler (the kind where you can't look down directly into the radiator) don't add water so long as the hot solution level remains in sight. In older radiators don't add water if the heated solution is well above the top of the tubes.

Mechanics Joe Speaking

"Engines that stall always bother owners, yet it is curious how few owners go into the comparatively simple causes of stalling. Perhaps they would be less mystified if they realized that it is normal for an engine to tend to stall the more it is used."

"This is due to the fact that, in closing under spring tension, the throttle pounds down the stop screw which adjusts its closing position. The throttle stop needs occasional readjusting just to compensate for this. In addition, there is bound to be loosening of the intake manifold and carburetor, a condition which permits air to leak into the intake. Stalling is also due to poor action of the carburetor float mechanism. It can also be due to an over-rich mixture, overloading and overheating. Believe it or not, overheating is a common winter condition, due to sticky thermostats, excessive covering of the front, freezing of the radiator and mechanical ills."

No Economy Here

Wartime is accelerating some mistakes in driving which are leading to waste instead of contributing to conservation. Typical is the business of robbing the engine of power on the theory that the driver always can resort to the gears when necessary. This is the basic misconception in the plan of cutting out half the engine's cylinders. Here it is necessary to resort to the lower gears not only in hill climbing but also to save the brakes when headed downward. Gear shifting is always wasteful. Not only does the engine go through a series of speed variations, but there is excessive wear on the clutch, transmission, shift control, universals and rear end. Using a little more gasoline will save a wealth in materials and man hours.

One For the Book

In a recent case the owner checked all along the line for lack of power. Whenever he was forced to step on it for safety getaway he found the engine quite unresponsive. Almost at the end of his rope he happened to consider the acceleration pump of the carburetor. Inspection of this part showed that the acceleration pumps valve was not seating properly. Due to the consequent internal leakage no reservoir of fuel was built up for release into the carburetor when the pump was brought into action.

Toward Better Storage

One of the OPA regulations requires automobile dealers to inject special rust preventing lubricant into the cylinders of new cars held in storage. This must be done at regular intervals. It is a gentle tip to those who have put their cars away for the duration or even for a few winter months.

Take out the spark plugs and seal the cylinders with easily removed corks. Once a week squirt some high grade light oil, or any lubricant specified for this purpose, into the cylinders. Then with the car in gear crank the engine by turning one of the jacked up rear wheels. There is no danger in this process because the battery is out of the car at the time.

Just For Your Safety

It's just a timely warning for your own personal safety but even

If you are cranking the engine to limber it up or you suspect that the engine is going to give trouble in starting, always play safe by opening the garage doors. The engine does not need to be running in the normal sense to emit a lot of carbon monoxide. Just a few feeble attempts at starting will cause the exhaust pipe to throw out enough monoxide to trap you. All the while you will be under the dangerous impression that you're safe because the engine isn't running.

Starting trouble can be due to so many different conditions it isn't any wonder that one of the readers of these chats about our cars went through an ordeal trying to get at the root of the thing. But, fortunately, he gave me the case history of his search for a solution. So now the rest of us will probably remember to look to the battery cable if the usual attentions fail to interest the engine in starting. He discovered that the cable on his car was eaten through so that it carried current to the starter-motor and the electrical system only when the strands were in contact. Just enough of them remained intact to keep the engine going once it started, but not enough to carry the heavy load for cranking.

The Motor Mailbag

Q. I cannot get good performance from the hot water heater on my car. The hose line to the heater is always hot, but the one from it is on the cool side. I have checked the motor thermostat. L. L. J.

A. Looks like the heater core is clogged. You can have this cleaned out, but it would be necessary to have the heater taken off the car for such service. I note at the bottom of your letter that you say this condition developed after having the engine core reverse flushed. Apparently a lot of sediment and rust were forced into the heater.

Q. What would cause a rattle in the clutch of my car whenever I hold the clutch pedal to the floor. One man said that the pressure plate was shot. Another said the clutch throw-out bearing was burned out. A third added that this was due to a flat roller bearing and that the trouble was not serious. What's your guess? D. N. A.

A. "Guess" is right in this case. There may be a dry or worn pilot bearing, worn transmission main drive gear bearing, bent clutch shaft, worn or dry clutch release sleeve, unequal contact of pressure levers against the pressure plate or the clutch cover, damaged clutch plate or worn release bearing. We'd have to take down the clutch to be sure.

Q. May I ask your advice about change of tires. I read that tires should be switched around but my local service station which represents the factory advises against it. They contend that the two rear tires have a different pattern and should not be used on the front wheels. F. J.

A. They are quite right about this. Let's be sensible about it. In your case interchange the front tires and do the same with the rear. If the spare has the same tread pattern as the rears then use it on a rear wheel every 2500 miles.

Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him care of the Gettysburg Times and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for personal reply.

Taxes On Goods Ordered Posted

In passing on to consumers the new federal excise taxes on cost-of-living commodities such as cigarettes, the tax per unit must be separately stated on cards, lists or labels used for posting ceiling prices of these commodities under Office of Price Administration regulations.

Posting requirements in connection with the tax were announced by Donald P. McPherson, Jr., chairman of the Adams County War Price and Rationing Board. There should be added to a posted list of ceiling prices on cigarettes, for example, he said, a notice to the effect that a half-cent of federal tax will be charged for each package of cigarettes sold.
